

Barry Top Vote Getter In Nebraska

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater was the top vote-getter in Tuesday's Nebraska Republican presidential preference primary, where he was the only candidate listed. But he ran into a strong tide of write-in votes for former Vice President Richard M. Nixon and others.

DeGaulle Faces NATO Fracas

Belgian to Challenge
French Intentions

THE HAGUE, Netherlands (AP)—Foreign ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization met today in a closed session at which Belgium's Paul Henri-Spaak planned to challenge President Charles de Gaulle's campaign to revamp the Atlantic alliance.

Spaak told his NATO colleagues he would call on the French to "spell out just what you think is wrong with NATO—and how it should be righted. Otherwise quit rocking the boat."

U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk averted a public clash between Spaak and French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville Tuesday at the opening of the ministers' annual spring meeting.

Rusk stopped in Brussels en route to The Hague and reportedly persuaded Spaak to lay aside a speech attacking Gaulism and all it means for the Alliance.

Today the 15 ministers met with only two aides present for each of them. The aim was to limit the risk that divisive exchanges would be leaked.

Hanging over the alliance are such basic questions as: How is NATO to be reshaped to accommodate the growing strength of Europe without spreading or weakening control over nuclear weapons?

How will Britain be linked with her continental allies in developing industrial, social and military institutions?

How are the allies going to work together to close the gap between have and have-not nations, keep world peace, reorganize trading patterns and cope with the Communist world?

Are Europe and America to move closer together in defense of the non-Communist world or drift apart?

De Gaulle contends NATO's his supporters had predicted before the election. He had just over 50 per cent of the vote while Nixon—who in 1960 had the presidential nomination that Goldwater seeks this year—had about 31 per cent.

Goldwater's major announced rival for the nomination, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, polled a sizable vote in the uncontested West Virginia preference primary.

Rockefeller had no write-in competition because such votes are not counted in West Virginia.

Returns from 1,455 of Nebraska's 2,148 precincts gave Goldwater 45,255 votes. The write-in votes went this way: 27,314 to Nixon, 14,037 to Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, 1,571 to Rockefeller, and 983 divided among a handful of others.

In West Virginia, with 1,501 of 2,664 precincts reporting, Rockefeller had 62,426, about 64 per cent of the total vote cast in a Jackluster Republican gubernatorial primary.

There were no Democratic preference contests in either state, but President Johnson rolled up a substantial write-in vote in Nebraska. With 1,494 precincts reporting, he had 38,776 votes. Gov. Frank Morrison had 1,862 write-in votes, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy had 111, 363 and Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama had 799.

The vote for Gov. Morrison, who also won the Democratic nomination for a third term, apparently was a gesture to boost his vice presidential stock.

Nixon's showing in Nebraska was by far his best in any of the spring primaries. He is not an announced candidate for the nomination but has said he would accept it.

A last-minute drive for write-in votes, spearheaded by former Secretary of the Interior Fred Seaton found fertile ground in a state which gave Nixon his biggest majority in the 1960 election—62.1 per cent.

West Virginia and Nebraska voters named delegates to the Republican and Democratic conventions, and also chose nominees for governor, senator and the House.

It was not known how the six Nebraska and 14 West Virginia delegates will line up at the GOP convention, but Goldwater is expected to get some support from each group.

The senator added at least six votes to his first ballot strength from other sources Tuesday.

Missouri Republicans chose six delegates, two of whom were instructed to vote for Goldwater and two of whom said they favor

UNVEILING — The public got a first look at the controversial B-70 bomber as the plane was rolled out at the Air Force plant in Palmdale, Calif. Governmental military forces have been split over the question of adding this plane to our defensive line-up. North American Aviation says the ship is designed to fly 2,000 miles an hour and will reach a 70,000-foot altitude.

Lisbon Board Hires Employees Teacher, Secretary Submit Resignations

LISBON—Lisbon School Board accepted two resignations, approved one leave of absence, and hired four employees at its monthly meeting Tuesday night.

Submitting resignations were Mrs. Judy Bryan, kindergarten teacher, and Mrs. Vivian Pennell, Lincoln School secretary.

Kenneth Hult requested the leave of absence from his custodial duties, but will continue driving a school bus.

The board hired Mrs. Gloria Hart as Lincoln School secretary, and Mrs. Frances McCall, McKinley School secretary.

Thomas Pike, Lisbon RD 5, was appointed Memorial Stadium custodian at $1,200 per season.

Mrs. Linnie Penny was hired as a school custodian on an hourly basis to replace Hult.

In other business the board approved a bid of $1,785 to improve shower facilities at Lincoln School. Harry Lederle will do the remodeling; Webster Plumbing, the plumbing; and Ajax Electric will install the lights.

The board also authorized Ajax to install new hall lights in Lincoln School halls at a cost of $952.62. The board approved repairs to McKinley playground and new patches of blacktopping at Lincoln School, and appropriated $700 to paint school rooms at Lincoln School this summer.

Gary Pike, guidance director, reported on the guidance program in Lisbon schools.

Rhodes Asks Aid For 24 Counties

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. James A. Rhodes has asked that 24 Ohio counties share in the federal Appalachia program.

The governor, in a letter Tuesday to Undersecretary of Commerce Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., chairman of the President's Appalachia Regional Commission asked for an increase in the number of counties sharing in the program from 18 to 24.

He listed these counties for inclusion in the anti-poverty program:

Adams, Athens, Belmont, Guernsey, Harrison, Highland, Jefferson, Meigs, Muskingum, Hocking, Jackson, Lawrence, Monroe, Morgan, Noble, Perry, Pike, Ross, Scioto, Vinton and Washington.

The new additions would be Clermont, Guernsey, Harrison, Jefferson, Muskingum and Ross counties.

Rhodes said that President Johnson had previously assured him that Ohio was down for an initial $90 million to aid highway, forestry, conservation and programs designed to stimulate employment in the area.

The president stopped in Athens last Thursday on a personal inspection tour of the 10-state Appalachian region to commend Ohio for deciding to participate in the program.

The president also announced that the Area Redevelopment Administration had agreed to establish a regional development institute at Ohio University.

The break-in was discovered this morning at 6 when custodian Reno Planati reported for work. Missing were the TV set,

Student Speakers Are Chosen

History to Be Theme Of SHS Graduation

A milestone will be marked when 224 Salem High School seniors receive their certificates of graduation at commencement exercises June 4.

It will be the 100th graduating class in the history of the city since Anna Kuhn Weaver and Lauretta Barnaby completed requirements for their diplomas in 1865 to become the pioneer class.

Lee Schnell, president of the 1963-64 senior class, will appear on the commencement program as one of two speakers. He will trace briefly the illustrious history of the high school which sprouted in post-Civil War days to blossom into the full-bloomed institution it is today.

Sharing the rostrum with Schnell as student speaker will be Dedaimia Whitney. She has remained here to complete her work after her parents, the Rev. and Mrs. T.G.S. Whitney have moved to Norwalk.

The commencement speakers were chosen by classmates.

Diplomas will be handed out by School Board President Gail Herron.

The Salem Area Ministerial Association is currently planning the baccalaureate service for the graduating class to be held in the gym Sunday, May 31, at 8 p.m.

Scholarships will be presented to outstanding students at the annual dinner sponsored for the graduating class by the Salem High School Alumni Association. It will be held June 6 in the school cafeteria.

Supreme Court Dismisses Ohio Bond Issue Suit

Meets With Contractor, Architect

W. Branch Board Employs Grid Aide

As part of a football re-organization program headed by new coach Stanley Becker, the West Branch School District Board of Education Tuesday night employed a young, new assistant to help shape the Warriors' fortunes.

He is Charles Wilson, a former Portage Southeast star, who will graduate in June from Ashland College. He is a health and physical education major.

Executive head Clinton Heacock said today that Becker is now in the process of re-organizing his grid staff in preparation for the opening of practice in August.

In other business the board held a consultation with the new high school's contractor and architect with the goal of correcting flaws that have cropped up in the past school year or completing unfinished projects.

Areas which need attention or finishing are the locker room, where plaster has cracked, faulty sidewalks, the lawn, lights and electrical work including speakers in the gym and an outlet in the concession area.

The general contractor, Charles Cartwright of North Benton, and a representative of the architectural firm, Philpot & Smith, will confer to present their recommendations to the board soon.

Accepted by the board was a new, improved industrial arts program drawn up by teacher John Altier. The plan, considered better organized and with more continuity than the present program, will include drawing the first semester and electrical power machines and project planning the second semester of the freshman year;

Woman Flier Circles Globe

Traces Most of Earhart Flight

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — "This is a helluva way to lose weight."

With these words, Joan Merriam of Long Beach, Calif., wrote the end to a chapter of aviation history that began 27 years ago when aviatrix Amelia Earhart disappeared in the Pacific in her attempt to be the first woman to circle the globe by air.

Miss Merriam, 27, landed safely at Oakland International Airport Tuesday after a trouble-plagued 27,750-mile solo flight that traced most of the original route chartered by Miss Earhart in 1927.

The mechanical difficulties that troubled her twin-engine plane throughout of the globe-circling flight remained to endanger her until she landed at 9:12 a.m.

One of her engines began running rough while she was still 250 miles off the California coast and she required a Coast Guard plane escort into Oakland.

"I thought I'd never see Oakland again," she laughed as she stepped down from her plane to the congratulations of some 400 people.

The weary but smiling Miss Merriam had this advice for anyone considering duplicating her feat: "Buy a ticket."

Relator Not Qualified To Bring Action

Suit Delayed Plans
To Improve State
Universities, Schools

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Supreme Court dismissed today a suit challenging legality of Ohio's $250 million bond issue approved by voters last November for capital improvements, largely for schools.

Paul J. Lynch, Columbus school teacher and former legislator, challenged financing enactments of the bond issue.

Judges agreed unanimously that Lynch was not qualified to bring his action because he is not a bond holder.

Lynch contended that a penny-a-pack cigarette tax, imposed to retire a $150 million bond issue voted in 1955, should not have been revised to make the revenue available for retirement of the new bond issue.

"It should be observed that even if the validity of relator's contentions be assumed, there is no reason," the court said, "why the new additional sales and use tax on cigarettes in the amount of one cent per pack may not be collected beginning Jan. 1, 1965, nor why the board of commissioners of the sinking fund may not issue and sell bonds or other obligations."

Lynch's suit held up plans on $61 million worth of improvements at state universities and public schools as well as programs for water impoundment and for parks and recreation, Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe said during court hearings.

He added that progress was halted on construction at seven state-supported universities, Cleveland Community College, municipal universities in Toledo, Akron and Cincinnati, and in elementary school districts.

Saxbe raised the question of political motivation in the request by Lynch, a Democrat, for an order to prevent Republican Gov. James A. Rhodes and

Canada Taking 'New Look' at Red China

THE HAGUE, Netherlands (AP)—Canadian Foreign Minister Paul Martin has told the North Atlantic allies that Canada may recognize Communist China next year, Canadian sources said today.

Martin reportedly made clear to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's foreign ministers that Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson's government is not going to make any sudden, rash moves. The sources said, however, that Ottawa believes the realities of international politics require a new look at Canada's relations with Red China.

The Canadian government, along with the United States, recognizes the Chinese Nationalist regime on Formosa, which holds China's seat in the United Nations.

The sources said Martin told the opening session of the NATO foreign ministers' meeting Tuesday that Ottawa suspects the Chinese Reds ultimately will be seated in the United Nations and it might be better to look now for a long-range solution that would protect Formosa from Communist takeover.

Patrol Giving Attention to 'Hot Spots'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's Highway Safety Department hopes to improve the reputation of some "hot spots" — intersections and stretches of road where accidents have been frequent.

Highway patrolmen, who make up the department's enforcement arm, have tackled the job with the blessing of Warren C. (Bud) Nelson, former newspaper editor who is department director.

Two to four cruisers are being used at certain periods at some of the danger spots, Capt. R.H. Shaneyfelt, enforcement officer, explained. Several are being patrolled 24 hours a day.

Shaneyfelt admits this strains patrol resources, but says it will continue until the number of accidents declines.

Not every "hot spot" has the same situation, the patrol has found.

At the intersection which has the dubious distinction of being rated Ohio's most dangerous — U.S. 224 and Ohio 8-91 southeast of Akron — there are construction-relocation problems. There were 41 accidents here in the past year, 26 in 1962.

Immediately west of Columbus on a 2½-mile stretch of U.S. 40 between Georgesville and Rome-Hilliard roads, haste of local people going to or coming from work is blamed. The Georgesville Road U.S. 40 intersection was the second worst in Ohio for the past year with 39 accidents.

The third, fourth and sixth worst intersections all are in the Dayton area — Needmore Road and U.S. 25, Ohio 741 and U.S. 25 and Neffs Avenue and U.S. 25. The fifth worst — U.S. 20 at U.S. 23 south of Sylvania in the Toledo area — also is near a metropolitan area.

These are getting particular patrol attention, Shaneyfelt said, as is a stretch of Ohio 246 going into Toledo. This considered by the department to be the most dangerous section of road in the non-intersection category, followed by U.S. 40 just west of Columbus and Interstate 71 entering and leaving Columbus.

Bell Appointed Project Engineer For E. W. Bliss

Emory W. Bell has been promoted to project engineer at the E. W. Bliss Company's Salem Division, it is announced by J. J. Hiegel, chief engineer.

Bell has been a senior designer. A native of Punxsutawney, Pa., Bell first joined the Bliss organization in 1956. After six years with Bliss' Salem Division, he joined the staff of Morgan Engineering Co. of Alliance, and returned to Bliss in late 1963.

He is a graduate of Rensselaer Poly Tech of Troy, N. Y. He also attended Tufts College and the University of Pittsburgh.

Bell and his wife, Elizabeth, and four children, William, 14; Betty Jo, 12; Barbara, 10; and Rebecca, 2, live at 312 Glenview Drive, Canfield.

70 Attend Rogers Banquet Tuesday

ROGERS — Seventy persons attended the mother-daughter banquet at the Rogers Methodist Church Tuesday.

Prizes were awarded by Mrs. Grace Baldwin to the following persons: Mrs. Bessie Pike, oldest mother; Mrs. James Shingelton, youngest mother; Mrs. William Lyder, newest mother; Mrs. E. W. Baker, mother with most daughters present; and Mrs. Baldwin, youngest grandmother.

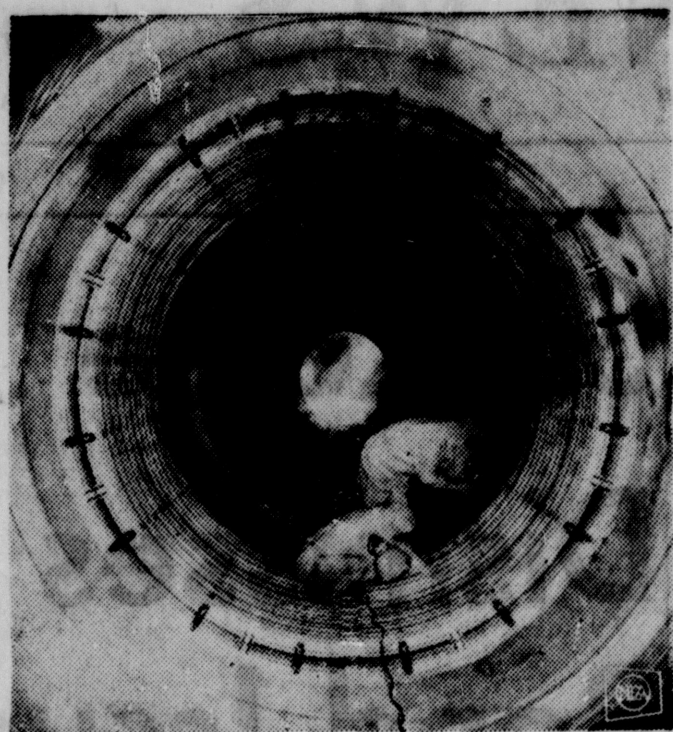

Mrs. I. Melville Wohrley sang a solo and led group singing. Mrs. Donald W. Elliott gave the pledge to daughters, with Lorna Elliott responding with a pledge to mothers.

Mrs. Charles Hawkins read a poem, "Satisfaction." Miss Becky Sechrist sang a solo. Opening and closing prayer was given by Mrs. Robert McMillan.

In charge of the program and coverdish dinner were Mrs. Richard Moore, Mrs. Charles Hawkins, Mrs. Baldwin, Mrs. Glenn Baker, Mrs. Kim Crawford, Jr., Mrs. Robert Moseman, Mrs. Manuell Pike, Mrs. Charles Phillips, Mrs. Arnold Green and Mrs. Fred Andreatta.

HELD OFF ROBBERY

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Police arrested one man and said they recovered all the loot 10 hours after two men robbed a branch of the Evans Savings Association of $3,500. The man arrested was about 25 and had a revolver in his possession, police said. The holdup Tuesday was at the Wooster-Hawkins Shopping Center.

MacNamara Ends Visit to S. Viet Nam

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara held a final round of talks with U.S. military officials in Saigon today under heavy guard.

Before leaving by plane for Washington, McNamara was also to meet with Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh, South Viet Nam's strongest premier, to review the general military, political and economic situation in the Communist-beset country.

No important new recommendations on the war against the Communist Viet Cong were expected from McNamara's 30-hour visit, an aide to the secretary said.

McNamara followed up his last visit, two months ago, with wide-ranging recommendations for increased U.S. aid and more American combat advisers, if necessary.

This trip was described as mainly to update McNamara on progress made in the past two months.

McNamara and Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, met this morning with Gen. Paul D. Harkins, commander of U.S. forces in South Viet Nam, and Lt. Gen. William C. Westmoreland, who replaces Harkins Aug. 1.

American and Vietnamese security officials maintained a state of alert declared several days ago.

A ring of armed U.S. soldiers stood guard Tuesday around a sports club's swimming pool where McNamara, U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge and Lodge's wife took a dip.

The U.S. request to its allies for assistance in Viet Nam continued to get a mixed reception.

The Danish government was reported planning to give an evasive answer. Nationalist China said it was studying ways to expand economic assistance. Communist North Viet Nam said the U.S. call for aid from other North Atlantic Treaty Organization nations was a "brazen intervention" in Viet Nam's internal affairs.

Beaver Local Boosters Meet

Several coming events were announced when 35 members of the Beaver Local Booster Club met Tuesday at the high school, with James McLaughlin presiding.

Mrs. McLaughlin will be in charge of refreshments for the coin show and sale June 7 at the high school. A horse pulling contest will be held July 4 at the high school grounds with McLaughlin, chairman. A horse show will be held July 26 at the Public School grounds with a prize to be awarded.

George Dunn was named football program chairman for 1964-65. The club's membership drive will be underway after July 4. A donation to the cheerleader fund was made. Bills totaling $304 were paid.

Curtailments in athletics resulting from the recent defeat of the five-mill school levy were discussed. Trustees of the club will meet next week with members of the board of education and Athletic Association.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Osborn served refreshments. Next regular club meeting will be May 26.

Youngstown Water Rate Hike Okayed

YOUNGSTOWN — Youngstown water users will not be asked to pay the water rate increase approved for the Mahoning Valley Sanitary District Monday by the Special Court of Jurisdiction.

Mayor Anthony B. Flask said the city would absorb the increase as it has done in the past. City residents have not had a water rate increase since 1932.

The new rate for water to the city will be $71 per million gallons used daily, compared with the old rate of $67.29. This is an increase of $3.71 per million gallons.

Niles Gets Water Hike

NILES — The increase of $3.70 per million gallons in water rates charged by the Mahoning Valley Sanitary District will cost the city of Niles an estimated $8,000 more annually, William C. Burgess, superintendent of utilities, said yesterday.

Burgess said a meeting of the city administration and City Council would be held to determine whether the city would absorb the increase or pass it on to consumers. The raise becomes effective in July.

Intruders Enter Ohio Hoist Firm

LISBON — Village police early this morning found a door at the Ohio Hoist Manufacturing Company had been forced open.

Sgt. Kenneth McKinzie called Paul Stockman, maintenance man, who inspected the premises but found nothing else disturbed. The doors to the office and shop were locked.

An inventory was being taken this morning.

Senators, Baker Probe Bid Spurned

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chairman B. Everett Jordan, D-N.C., dismissed today as "the height of demagoguery" a request that his Senate Rules Committee investigate the relations of senators with Bobby Baker.

The request was made by Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., in urging the committee to "get to the bottom" of the Baker case and not treat members of the Senate as "a privileged class."

After Baker had resigned under fire last Oct. 7 as secretary to the Senate's Democratic majority, the committee launched an investigation of whether his outside business dealings had conflicted with his official duties or involved other improprieties.

Baker, who built up a fortune he estimated at more than $2 million while on the Senate payroll at $19,600 a year, invoked his Fifth Amendment protection and refused to answer questions when called as a witness.

At a hearing Tuesday of the Rules Committee, thrown open to the public at the last minute, Case urged that each senator be asked if he ever had had any business or financial dealings with Baker or had received campaign contributions or anything else of value from him.

"No investigation of Bobby Baker can have any real meaning without an investigation of the relations of members of the Senate with Bobby Baker," Case said at the stormy hearing.

In an interview later, Jordan said "I think it would be an insult to senators" for the Rules Committee to ask them the questions proposed by Case.

He said Case's testimony amounted to "a blanket indictment" of all of the members of the Senate, "at least by intimation."

Jordan said that if Case has information indicating any wrongdoing by senators, "let him submit it to the committee, and we'll look into it."

Jordan indicated that the committee is unlikely to recommend that Baker be cited for contempt of Congress, punishable by a $1,000 fine and a year in jail, because of his refusal to answer questions or surrender subpoenaed records.

That Was a Debate?

Word is out, in Washington that top Democrats do not expect President Johnson to engage in television debates in his 1964 campaign.

If their decision sticks, the President will do what Vice President Nixon's friends thought he should have done four years ago — let his opponent stand on his own feet in TV ratings.

Their theory was built on the reasoning that Vice President Nixon had appeared on television so often his opponent, still a relatively unknown young senator from Massachusetts, had a vast gap to close; therefore, why help him do it?

Nixon advisers did not know at the time that their man's physical condition in the first debate would make him look worn and wan and that inept makeup and aging would accentuate this.

Now that perspective has been added to the quick judgments of the 1960 campaign, Mr. Nixon's friends are aware of still another disadvantage. The television camera is not kind to the former vice president. It accentuates the same features that have made him easy to caricature.

Appearance should not be a key consideration in a national election. Yet it is, when TV campaigning is being considered. Facial characteristics are as vital as the dulcet intonations of Franklin D. Roosevelt's radio speeches in 1932 contrasted with the jerky-jerky presentations of Herbert Hoover.

It is not what candidates think but how they say it and what they look like that sways opinion in TV campaigning. President Johnson will have nothing to gain by debating his still-to-be-chosen opponent on television this year.

He has been making his own impression — and very successfully — as a "single" among the political headlines. He owes no exposure to a relatively obscure rival.

And as for debating, all who remember that so-called "debate" in 1960 can't hear the word without wincing. What issues were debated? To what effect?

Specter At The Hague

For most of us, the meeting of the 15 North Atlantic Treaty Organization at The Hague in Holland this week will be as remote as all other diplomatic events abroad. But for each of us this meeting could be momentous.

The specter of NATO's collapse will be present at The Hague meeting. President De Gaulle of France never has supported the concept of an integrated force. Greece and Turkey are at sword's points. Britain is run out of patience with Secretary of State Rusk's insistence on cutting back its trade with Cuba.

Only West Germany is clearly oriented with the United States on the important proposal pending before NATO—the U.S. concept of a multilateral missile fleet. This was supposed to offset demands for control of each member nation.

The fleet would be under NATO control. Its missiles could not be launched without unanimous consent, meaning in effect they could not be launched under any circumstances. This, too, will go down hard with the other members of NATO.

Before the Hague meeting is over, the dream of collective security in Europe through this subsidiary of the United Nations peace-keeping organization may be shattered in a collision between the United States and its European allies.

If Moderation Is Keynote

It would be surprising if the Republican committee on convention arrangements passed over U.S. Rep. Robert Taft Jr., Ohio's overwhelming choice to recapture a Senate seat for the Republican party this coming November.

He is an obvious choice for convention keynote—the ideal spot on the program for one of the party's attractive young men who isn't ready for a place on the ticket but is part of the party's crop of future aspirants.

Rep. Taft would go before the convention with a significant vote of confidence to his credit—his lopsided victory in the Ohio Republican primary over Ted W. Brown, a popular state official, who gambled and lost on the proposition that his popularity would be enhanced if he ran under the banner of extreme conservatism.

THE BROWN PARLAY never left the ground in this key state.

Instead, it enhanced a thumping vote of Ohio Republican confidence in the political moderation of young Bob Taft, who has made a fine start on a career in Congress.

He has avoided the ultra-conservative coloration that was an undesired handicap on his famous father. The elder Taft was too moderate for the taste of many of his ultraconservative friends, some of whom regarded him as a legislative wild man. When he supported public housing, they looked on him as little better than a pinko.

Thanks to the radical left, the elder Taft was built up into a symbol of ultraconservatism. Like an actor typed by a role he is forced to play, "Mr. Republican" was made into a symbol of something he didn't really represent in his own thinking.

HIS SON IS lopsided victory over Secretary of State Brown in the Republican primary was a victory for political moderation over extremism.

If that's the kind of keynote the Republican committee on convention arrangements wants to hit, Robert Taft Jr. is a logical choice to hit it.

Just Reality

I am dry-mouthed with anxiety about this anti-wrinkle goop that has been in the news.

At this moment, I am looking at a full-page ad in The New York Times showing a sweetie-pie in before-and-after shots. She is not my type of sweetie-pie, which I admit is not something that comes in busloads, but this woman would not be thrown off the premises if she showed up and wanted to darn your socks.

That's only the "after" version. "Before" . . . annh.

She is just an old girl who has seen better days and is gussied up in an attitude of bravado, like an old horse on his way to the glue works with a ribbon tied to his forelock.

But you pat on some anti-wrinkle goop and zip, you have a plum instead of a prune. As I said, it leaves me dry-mouthed with anxiety.

WHERE IS IT going to end—this disclosure of the wiles of womanhood.

When I was a child I used to see my mother's "switches" hanging on a hook on her dresser. She showed me how these detached tails, which is what they looked like to me, could be entwined in her own hair to beef up the bun in back. I was sworn to secrecy.

This was inside dope, elicited by a posey kid. Today, even babes in arms know that women wear wigs, dye their hair, resort to padding and never fly their true colors.

As soon as they have their eyes in focus, every moppet knows about the structural gear that keeps females from looking natural.

The moppet knows they smell good because of chemicals peddled in fancy bottles. In truth, if a kid stays up late enough and leafs through the magazines, especially the slicks, he grows up with a completely clinical point of view.

THERE WAS a pseudo-lachrymose ballad we used to croon about. . . "After the ball was over, Mary took out her glass eye, dunked her false teeth in water and hung up her false hair to dry." There were further details.

Those were artifices easy to detect. A girl could be forgiven for being minus an eye and having dental problems. The wig, of course, has acquired the dignity of centuries of use.

But a Cinderella routine that threatens to turn a female back into a drudge before she gets out of the pumpkin—this is going too far.

The geniuses writing blurbs for the anti-wrinkle goop are plastering over the ugly part. It's before and after, then back to before.

The stuff lasts "for hours," but not forever. Sooner or later comes the moment of truth, when Miss Hyde turns into Miss Frankenstein.

How would she feel if the guy she has gullied with look Ma, no wrinkles, turned into a vampire? Any better than he is going to feel if his doll turns into a witch?

I don't even want the stuff to be sold to safely married women. Hair curlers are bad enough without a reminder that the old girl's face isn't that good-looking either—that the real Mrs. is going to stand up when the alarm clock goes off.

Guarding Our Presidents

By LOUIS NIZER
Herald Tribune News Service
NEW YORK — The commission headed by Chief Justice Earl Warren will achieve two objectives when it reports its findings.

The first will be to set to rest the inevitable speculations about whether one man, acting on his own aberrational initiative, killed the President of the United States, or whether a conspiratorial group executed the greatest crime of the century.

The second will be to determine whether there were defects in our system of security which were avoidable, or whether a fateful combination of coincidences made prevention of the crime impossible.

IT IS THE second objective to which I address myself, because it involves not merely responsibility for the past but a lesson for the future.

Is it beyond hope that our country, which provides security for many nations all over the globe, should be able to protect its own President's life?

The world will look forward eagerly to the resolution of these questions, but the people of America have a very special stake in the findings, because we should not be spared the knowledge which may save any future President.

Two questions require answers above all others. First: Why was not a building with uninhabited warehouse floors placed under special guard?

THE TECHNIQUES of security were developed to a high degree by dictators. Since they engaged in mass murders in their own countries and the crushing of neighbors, they were surrounded by inflamed populations burning for revenge.

Yet Hitler rode through the streets of Prague and Vienna, standing in his car with upraised arm. SS troops were stationed on almost every roof on the route; all window blinds had to be drawn, and so many guards stood among the "cheering" population on the streets that no civilian could make a false move without being struck down.

Above all, Hitler's car moved at a calculated speed, which permitted even the sharpest marksman a fleeting second for aim, even if all else failed.

GENERAL DE GAULLE visited Algeria when passions were aflame. Yet he was protected fully. Some experts estimated there were more than 200,000 guards assigned to the task.

In our own country the President is generally a beloved and revered figure. Political criticism does not obliterate the awe and respect we have for our elected head of state. There is no impassioned population determined to revenge itself for the brutal extinction of thousands of families.

So we can afford to take some risks. Window blinds need not be drawn on the President's route. Guards need not be stationed on every other roof.

PERHAPS WE can rely on the fact that the average housewife or office worker looking out of the window will have homicidal intent. Besides, there will be others about who would be horrified if a servant, let's say, had a revolver, or an office worker carried a shotgun at the time the presidential car was to go by.

The probability of intervention is, therefore, extremely high. If this is combined with a certain speed of procession, the risk of even a crackpot's action is reduced to a minimum.

But the assumption is always that decent citizens are present in offices or homes to interfere with some fanatic's wild intention.

HOWEVER, if there is an empty warehouse in the line of march, the risk is increased enormously. Then an insane man can place himself comfortably at a window, arrange his gunsight and wait patiently without fear of interruption.

The second large question is: Why was one with Oswald's record not removed in advance from the scene of the parade?

Another technique of security is the rounding up of known crackpots and keeping them away from the presidential route during the half hour or few minutes which are critical.

This does not mean that we can spot and detect every neurotic in a large city. But there are a dozen or two agitators well known to every police department, who would best be out of sight of the President on such occasions.

THEY NEED NOT be arrested, since even proclivity for wrongdoing is not a crime, but they are questioned; and if they intend to be on the street of the President's route, they are requested to attend to their business at some other place.

If they insist on being in the critical area, at least they are aided. Surely this is not too much precaution in view of the care taken, for example, of checking every manhole over which the Presidential car will pass to be certain there are no bombs.

Now if one were to make a list of "characters" in any city who should be checked, and Lee Oswald was in that city, would he not be near the very top of the list?

WHENEVER one suffers an injury from an accident, whether it be a twisted ankle from a bathtub fall or a broken limb from an automobile impulse

Strange Speech

By DAVID LAWRENCE

President Johnson made a strange speech a few days ago which surprised many people throughout the country. He attributed the assassination of his predecessor to "hate" and fear and "bigotry."

This is something which is so much at variance with the facts published thus far concerning Lee Harvey Oswald, the accused assassin, that it has caused wonder whether Mr. Johnson's address was prompted by an overemotional speech writer or whether he himself has concluded that the assassination was produced by the alleged "hate" doctrines of some of the people who were opposed to Mr. Kennedy.

Speaking last Saturday at the dedication of the John F. Kennedy Cultural Center in New York, President Johnson said in part:

"John F. Kennedy was the victim of the hate that was a part of our country. It's a disease that occupies the minds of the few but brings danger to the many. . . .

"If we had more centers like this, if we had done our job a little better and we had feared a little less and our hatred had been minimized and our bigotry driven underground — John Fitzgerald Kennedy would be here with us today as our 35th president. He gave his life for his country. He need not have given it except for those who hate and those who fear and those who frighten easily and those who feel insecure."

When the late President was assassinated, there were many people who attributed the murder to the "hate wave" in America.

ALMOST immediately after the news was flashed across the country, there were numerous comments from Washington and elsewhere which blamed the act on "bigots" and "extremists." Chief Justice Earl Warren, for instance, said the assassination was "a result of the hatred and bitterness that has been injected into the life of our nation by bigots."

The inference at the time was that some kind of right wing activity had motivated the assassination. It soon was discovered that Oswald had spent considerable time in Russia and was a believer in Marxist philosophy.

He could have disliked Mr. Kennedy because he felt the President's views were not pro-Communist or pro-Marxist or pro-leftist but almost every piece of evidence that has been made public since indicates that Oswald had a deranged mind and that his aberration started in his youth. His erratic behavior was noticeable in the years immediately preceding the episode at Dallas. The conclusion of persons familiar with psychiatric problems has been that Oswald, for whom guns and target practice had a fascination, decided to take some shots at the President's automobile.

Is a disturbed mind which goes to such an extreme really related in any way to public questions or to the prejudices that are commonly associated with the pros and cons of public policy? Could Oswald's action have been prevented if there had been less "bigotry" in the United States, and is it conceivable that, even if there were more centers like the John F. Kennedy Cultural Center, "John Fitzgerald Kennedy would be here with us today"?

MEDICAL HISTORY shows that, irrespective of the ideology of any country, there are deranged minds which are responsible for the commission of crimes that are inexplicable on any rational or logical basis.

Scarcely a day goes by that the newspapers do not report brutal and senseless killings of young children or aged persons, or attacks on women in their homes or on the streets, committed by individuals who do not even know their victims but are governed by some deep emotional urge that is a form of insanity.

Until now it had been widely assumed that Oswald was insane and that his crime was that of a demented individual. The theory that it could somehow be associated with hate or prejudices or bigotry in the land had been pretty well dispelled.

President Johnson's remarks raise the question as to just why, after a lapse of several months, Mr. Johnson chose to revive the theory. Could it be that the Warren commission has divulged to the President some information that has not yet been made available to the public at large? Authoritative sources deny this assumption.

THE WHOLE THING has an air of mystery, because on its face it just doesn't seem consistent with Mr. Johnson's approach in the past. While he has condemned the action of the assassin and has also condemned bigotry and hatred and all similar emotions that are to be found in a vast population, he never has attributed the crime directly to the inspiration of the "hate" groups or a "hate" psychology.

Today In History

Today is Wednesday, May 13, the 134th day of 1964. There are 232 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1607, the first permanently successful English colony in America was founded at Jamestown, Va., when three London Company ships landed some 30 miles up the James River. The voyagers immediately selected the site of what is now Jamestown and started building a fort.

On this date
In 1788, the grandfather of political organizations in the United States, the Tammany Society of New York, held its first meeting.

In 1809, Napoleon captured

Vienna.

In 1915, the United States formally protested the May 7 sinking of the "Lusitania" by a German submarine.

In 1940, Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands and her daughter, Juliana, fled from the Hague to London.

In 1940, British Prime Minister Churchill made his historic statement: "I have nothing to offer but blood, toil, tears and sweat."

Ten years ago . . . President Dwight D. Eisenhower signed legislation authorizing the United States to join Canada in construction of the S. Lawrence Seaway.

Five years ago . . . Three Air Force F100 Super Sabre jets crashed into the ocean near Myrtle Beach, S.C., killing all three pilots.

One year ago . . . Security measures were relaxed in Birmingham, Ala., with some easing of racial tensions following days of rioting and violence.

What About Dogs?

If there are any more complaints about Mayor Crammer's horses, then there should be a thorough investigation of dog ordinances and dog owners.

In my estimation people who keep "barking" dogs, are a menace to society. And what is more un-human than to keep a poor dog tied all day and night, without the proper handling and exercise?

I admire the mayor for letting his children have pets they can enjoy and provide good healthy fun.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: Two weeks ago our 12-year-old son had to stay after school because he talked in class. Since it was Clinton's second offense my husband insisted that he walk home. (I usually drive him.)

I didn't say anything even though it suddenly turned cold and windy. About 5:30 I began to worry. Clinton should have been home by 5. I got in the car and began to look for him. I found the boy halfway between school and home. (We live a mile and a half from school.) He was cold and exhausted.

When my husband saw us get out of the car he was furious. He insisted I should not have gone to get the boy and that he should have taken his punishment. Please tell me if I was wrong to go after him. — CONFUSED.

Dear Confused: Do you honestly believe your son would have suffered if he had walked ALL the way home? I do not.

Clinton outfoxed you, Mom. He knew if he poked along you would worry. He was getting even with you for making him walk and he also figured you'd come looking for him. He was right.

It's too darned bad that a mile-and-a-half walk is considered punishment these days. Clinton would be better off if he walked it every day. Why don't you let him?

Genius at Work

Dear Ann: My husband and I moved to this city about six years ago. We have made some fine friends. One woman, a widow of whom I'm especially fond, confided in me several weeks ago that she has offered to help her stepbrother who has had a lot of hard luck. He moved into her lovely home and assumes that her friends are automatically his friends.

He calls himself a poet and refuses to take a steady job because it might interfere with his "creative genius." His clothes are disreputable and he doesn't know what a comb is. He uses terrible language and if anyone shows signs of annoyance he says, "If you've never heard that word before it's time you did."

We don't want this man in our home and we have told his step-sister how we feel. She says she cannot leave him when she goes out socially. What shall we do? — KITCHENER.

Dear Kitch: Tell her you'll miss her and to let you know when Longfellow moves out.

Deadly Dull Date

Dear Ann: A boy I will call Frank is awfully nice but he is deadly dull. I had two dates with him and both nights I was so worn out from trying to keep the conversation going that I felt as if I had worked a double shift in a hand laundry.

Frank has asked me out three times since that last miserable date and I've told him I'm busy. (Twice I really was busy and once I lied.) I've made up my mind that I will not go out with him again but I don't know how to tell him to stop calling. I hate to be cruel but he just won't give up. Can you help me? — POLITE AND PAYING.

Dear Polite: You can't tell a boy he is deadly dull and please stop calling you. The next time Frank phones, offer to fix him up with a friend of yours whom he doesn't know. Think of a not-very-popular girl who would be happy to have a date. (The woods are full of 'em.) Frank then will not feel totally rejected and, who knows, they may even like each other.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Salem News, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Judge Overrules New Trial Motion

LISBON — Common Pleas Judge Raymond S. Buzzard Tuesday overruled the motion for a new trial filed by Austin W. Hoschar, 37, of East Liverpool, who had been convicted of forgery.

Hoschar was indicted by the September grand jury on two counts of forgery. A petit jury found him guilty Oct. 8.

He appealed this case to the Seventh District Court of Appeals which upheld the lower court.

On March 25 he was found guilty of the second count, and on April 24 he petitioned for a new trial. Judge Buzzard heard the arguments and reserved his decision until yesterday. The judge withheld sentencing pending possible filing of an appeal by Hoschar.

Appeal Is Filed In Road Mishap Suit

LISBON — An appeal has been filed by Mervin J. Vonada, Noward, Pa., in the civil suit brought by Donald Leroy Moore, of RD 3, Salem, a minor, and William H. Moore and Edith Irene Moore, his parents. A jury last month awarded $1,500 to Mr. and Mrs. Moore as the result of an auto accident Jan. 13, 1961, in front of Barnett's Motel, west of Salem on Route 62.

The Moores sued for $9,000. It is expected that the case will be heard by the Seventh District Court of Appeals during its fall visit to Columbiana County.

The accident occurred when Vonada, going west, turned left into Barnett's Motel and was struck by the eastbound car driven by Moore.

That Was a Debate?

Word is out, in Washington that top Democrats do not expect President Johnson to engage in television debates in his 1964 campaign.

If their decision sticks, the President will do what Vice President Nixon's friends thought he should have done four years ago — let his opponent stand on his own feet in TV ratings.

Their theory was built on the reasoning that Vice President Nixon had appeared on television so often his opponent, still a relatively unknown young senator from Massachusetts, had a vast gap to close; therefore, why help him do it?

Nixon advisers did not know at the time that their man's physical condition in the first debate would make him look worn and wan and that inept makeup and sagging would accentuate this.

Now that perspective has been added to the quick judgments of the 1960 campaign, Mr. Nixon's friends are aware of still another disadvantage. The television camera is not kind to the former vice president. It accentuates the same features that have made him easy to caricature.

Appearance should not be a key consideration in a national election. Yet it is, when TV campaigning is being considered. Facial characteristics are as vital as the dulcet intonations of Franklin D. Roosevelt's radio speeches in 1932 contrasted with the jerky-jerky presentations of Herbert Hoover.

It is not what candidates think but how they say it and what they look like that sways opinion in TV campaigning. President Johnson will have nothing to gain by debating his still-to-be-chosen opponent on television this year.

He has been making his own impression — and very successfully — as a "single" among the political headliners. He owes no exposure to a relatively obscure rival.

And as for debating, all who remember that so-called "debate" in 1960 cannot hear the word without wincing. What issues were debated? To what effect?

Specter At The Hague

For most of us, the meeting of the 15 North Atlantic Treaty Organization at The Hague in Holland this week will be as remote as all other diplomatic events abroad. But for each of us this meeting could be momentous.

The specter of NATO's collapse will be present at The Hague meeting. President De Gaulle of France never has supported the concept of an integrated force. Greece and Turkey are at swords' points. Britain is run out of patience with Secretary of State Rusk's insistence on cutting back its trade with Cuba.

Only West Germany is clearly oriented with the United States on the important proposal pending before NATO—the U.S. concept of a multilateral missile fleet. This was supposed to offset demands for control of each member nation.

The fleet would be under NATO control. Its missiles could not be launched without unanimous consent, meaning in effect they could not be launched under any circumstances. This, too, will go down hard with the other members of NATO.

Before the Hague meeting is over, the dream of collective security in Europe through this subsidiary of the United Nations peace-keeping organization may be shattered in a collision between the United States and its European allies.

If Moderation Is Keynote

It would be surprising if the Republican committee on convention arrangements passed over U.S. Rep. Robert Taft Jr., Ohio's overwhelming choice to recapture a Senate seat for the Republican party this coming November.

He is an obvious choice for convention keynote—the ideal spot on the program for one of the party's attractive young men who isn't ready for a place on the ticket but is part of the party's crop of future aspirants.

Rep. Taft would go before the convention with a significant vote of confidence to his credit—his lopsided victory in the Ohio Republican primary over Ted W. Brown, a popular state official, who gambled and lost on the proposition that his popularity would be enhanced if he ran under the banner of extreme conservatism.

THE BROWN PARLAY never left the ground in this key state.

Instead, it enhanced a thumping vote of Ohio Republican confidence in the political moderation of young Bob Taft, who has made a fine start on a career in Congress.

He has avoided the ultra-conservative coloration that was an undesired handicap on his famous father. The elder Taft was too moderate for the taste of many of his ultraconservative friends, some of whom regarded him as a legislative wild man. When he supported public housing, they looked on him as little better than a pinko.

Thanks to the radical left, the elder Taft was built up into a symbol of ultra-conservatism. Like an actor typed by a role he is forced to play, "Mr. Republican" was made into a symbol of something he didn't really represent in his own thinking.

HIS SON IS lopsided victory over Secretary of State Brown in the Republican primary was a victory for political moderation over extremism.

If that's the kind of keynote the Republican committee on convention arrangements wants to hit, Robert Taft Jr. is a logical choice to hit it.

THE TECHNIQUES of security were developed to a high degree by dictators. Since they engaged in mass murders in their own countries and the crushing of neighbors, they were surrounded by inflamed populations burning for revenge.

Yet Hitler rode through the streets of Prague and Vienna, standing in his car with upraised arm. SS troops were stationed on almost every roof on the route; all window blinds had to be drawn, and so many guards stood among the "cheering" population on the streets that no civilian could make a false move without being struck down.

Above all, Hitler's car moved at a calculated speed, which permitted even the sharpest marksman a fleeting second for aim, even if all else failed.

GENERAL DE GAULLE visited Algeria when passions were aflame. Yet he was protected fully. Some experts estimated there were more than 200,000 guards assigned to the task.

In our own country the President is generally a beloved and revered figure. Political criticism does not obliterate the awe and respect we have for our elected head of state. There is no impassioned population determined to revenge itself for the brutal extinction of thousands of families.

So we can afford to take some risks. Window blinds need not be drawn on the President's route. Guards need not be stationed on every other roof.

PERHAPS WE can rely on the fact that the average housewife or office worker looking out of the window will have homicidal intent. Besides, there will be others about who would be horrified if a servant, let's say, had a revolver, or an office worker carried a shotgun at the time the presidential car was to go by.

The probability of intervention is, therefore, extremely high. If this is combined with a certain speed of procession, the risk of even a crackpot's action is reduced to a minimum.

But the assumption is always that decent citizens are present in offices or homes to interfere with some fanatic's wild intention.

HOWEVER, if there is an empty warehouse in the line of march, the risk is increased enormously. Then an insane man can place himself comfortably at a window, arrange his gunsight and wait patiently without fear of interruption.

The second large question is: Why was one with Oswald's record not removed in advance from the scene of the parade?

Another technique of security is the rounding up of known crackpots and keeping them away from the presidential route during the half hour or few minutes which are critical.

This does not mean that we can spot and detect every neurotic in a large city. But there are a dozen or two agitators well known to every police department, who would best be out of sight of the President on such occasions.

THEY NEED NOT be arrested, since even proclivity for wrongdoing is not a crime, but they are questioned; and if they intend to be on the street of the President's route, they are requested to attend to their business at some other place.

If they insist on being in the critical area, at least they are ailed. Surely this is not too much precaution in view of the care taken, for example, of checking every manhole over which the Presidential car will pass to be certain there are no bombs.

Now if one were to make a list of "characters" in any city who should be checked, and Lee Oswald was in that city, would he not be near the very top of the list?

WHENEVER one suffers an injury from an accident, whether it be a twisted ankle from a bathtub fall or a broken limb from an automobile impulse

Strange Speech

By DAVID LAWRENCE

President Johnson made a strange speech a few days ago which surprised many people throughout the country. He attributed the assassination of his predecessor to "hate" and fear and "bigotry."

This is something which is so much at variance with the facts published thus far concerning Lee Harvey Oswald, the accused assassin, that it has caused wonder whether Mr. Johnson's address was prompted by an overemotional speech writer or whether he himself has concluded that the assassination was produced by the alleged "hate" doctrines of some of the people who were opposed to Mr. Kennedy.

Speaking last Saturday at the dedication of the John F. Kennedy Cultural Center in New York, President Johnson said in part: "John F. Kennedy was the victim of the hate that was a part of our country. It's a disease that occupies the minds of the few but brings danger to the many. . . .

"If we had more centers like this, if we had done our job a little better and we had feared a little less and our hatred had been minimized and our bigotry driven underground — John Fitzgerald Kennedy would be here with us today as our 35th president. He gave his life for his country. He need not have given it except for those who hate and those who fear and those who frighten easily and those who feel insecure."

When the late President was assassinated, there were many people who attributed the murder to the "hate wave" in America.

ALMOST immediately after the news was flashed across the country, there were numerous comments from Washington and elsewhere which blamed the act on "bigots" and "extremists." Chief Justice Earl Warren, for instance, said the assassination was "a result of the hatred and bitterness that has been injected into the life of our nation by bigots."

The inference at the time was that some kind of right wing activity had motivated the assassination. It soon was discovered that Oswald had spent considerable time in Russia and was a believer in Marxist philosophy.

He could have disliked Mr. Kennedy because he felt the President's views were not pro-Communist or pro-Marxist or pro-leftist but almost every piece of evidence that has been made public since indicates that Oswald had a deranged mind and that his aberration started in his youth. His erratic behavior was noticeable in the years immediately preceding the episode at Dallas. The conclusion of persons familiar with psychiatric problems has been that Oswald, for whom guns and target practice had a fascination, decided to take some shots at the President's automobile.

Is a disturbed mind which goes to such an extreme really related in any way to public questions or to the prejudices that are commonly associated with the pros and cons of public policy? Could Oswald's action have been prevented if there had been less "bigotry" in the United States, and is it conceivable that, even if there were more centers like the John F. Kennedy Cultural Center, "John Fitzgerald Kennedy would be here with us today?"

MEDICAL HISTORY shows that, irrespective of the ideology of any country, there are deranged minds which are responsible for the commission of crimes that are inexplicable on any rational or logical basis.

Scarcely a day goes by that the newspapers do not report brutal and senseless killings of young children or aged persons, or attacks on women in their homes or on the streets, committed by individuals who do not even know their victims but are governed by some deep emotional urge that is a form of insanity.

Until now it had been widely assumed that Oswald was insane and that his crime was that of a demented individual. The theory that it could somehow be associated with hate or prejudices or bigotry in the land had been pretty well dispelled.

President Johnson's remarks raise the question as to just why, after a lapse of several months, Mr. Johnson chose to revive the theory. Could it be that the Warren commission has divulged to the President some information that has not yet been made available to the public at large? Authoritative sources deny this assumption.

THE WHOLE THING has an air of mystery, because on its face it just doesn't seem consistent with Mr. Johnson's approach in the past. While he has condemned the action of the assassin and has also condemned bigotry and hatred and all similar emotions that are to be found in a vast population, he never has attributed the crime directly to the inspiration of the "hate" groups or a "hate" psychology.

Today In History

Today is Wednesday, May 13, the 134th day of 1964. There are 232 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1607, the first permanently successful English colony in America was founded at Jamestown, Va., when three London Company ships landed some 30 miles up the James River. The voyagers immediately selected the site of what is now Jamestown and started building a fort.

On this date
In 1788, the grandfather of political organizations in the United States, the Tammany Society of New York, held its first meeting.

In 1809, Napoleon captured

Vienna.

In 1915, the United States formally protested the May 7 sinking of the "Lusitania" by a German submarine.

In 1940, Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands and her daughter, Juliana, fled from the Hague to London.

In 1940, British Prime Minister Churchill made his historic statement: "I have nothing to offer but blood, toil, tears and sweat."

Ten years ago . . . President Dwight D. Eisenhower signed legislation authorizing the United States to join Canada in construction of the S. Lawrence Seaway.

Five years ago . . . Three Air Force F100 Super Sabre jets crashed into the ocean near Myrtle Beach, S.C., killing all three pilots.

One year ago . . . Security measures were relaxed in Birmingham, Ala., with some easing of racial tensions following days of rioting and violence.

Views Of Our Readers

What About Dogs?

If there are any more complaints about Mayor Crammer's horses, then there should be a thorough investigation of dog ordinances and dog owners.

In my estimation people who keep "barking" dogs, are a menace to society. And what is more un-human than to keep a poor dog tied all day and night, without the proper handling and exercise?

I admire the mayor for letting his children have pets they can enjoy and provide good healthy fun.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: Two weeks ago our 12-year-old son had to stay after school because he talked in class. Since it was Clinton's second offense my husband insisted that he walk home. (I usually drive him.)

I didn't say anything even though it suddenly turned cold and windy. About 5:30 I began to worry. Clinton should have been home by 5. I got in the car and began to look for him. I found the boy halfway between school and home. (We live a mile and a half from school.) He was cold and exhausted.

When my husband saw us get out of the car he was furious. He insisted I should not have gone to get the boy and that he should have taken his punishment. Please tell me if I was wrong to go after him. — CONFUSED.

Dear Confused: Do you honestly believe your son would have suffered if he had walked ALL the way home? I do not.

Clinton outfoxed you, Mom. He knew if he poked along you would worry. He was getting even with you for making him walk and he also figured you'd come looking for him. He was right.

It's too darned bad that a mile-and-a-half walk is considered punishment these days. Clinton would be better off if he walked it every day. Why don't you let him?

Genius at Work

Dear Ann: My husband and I moved to this city about six years ago. We have made some fine friends. One woman, a widow of whom I'm especially fond, confided in me several weeks ago that she has offered to help her stepbrother who has had a lot of hard luck. He moved into her lovely home and assumes that her friends are automatically his friends.

He calls himself a poet and refuses to take a steady job because it might interfere with his "creative genius." His clothes are disreputable and he doesn't know what a comb is. He uses terrible language and if anyone shows signs of annoyance he says, "If you've never heard that word before it's time you did."

We don't want this man in our home and we have told his step-sister how we feel. She says she cannot leave him when she goes out socially. What shall we do? — KITCHENER.

Dear Kitch: Tell her you'll miss her and to let you know when Longfellow moves out.

Deadly Dull Date

Dear Ann: A boy I will call Frank is awfully nice but he is deadly dull. I had two dates with him and both nights I was so worn out from trying to keep the conversation going that I felt as if I had worked a double shift in a hand laundry.

Frank has asked me out three times since that last miserable date and I've told him I'm busy. (Twice I really was busy and once I lied.) I've made up my mind that I will not go out with him again but I don't know how to tell him to stop calling. I hate to be cruel but he just won't give up. Can you help me? — POLITE AND PAYING.

Dear Polite: You can't tell a boy he is deadly dull and please stop calling you.

The next time Frank phones, offer to fix him up with a friend of yours whom he doesn't know. Think of a not-very-popular girl who would be happy to have a date. (The woods are full of 'em.) Frank then will not feel totally rejected and, who knows, they may even like each other.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Salem News, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Judge Overrules

New Trial Motion

LISBON — Common Pleas Judge Raymond S. Buzzard Tuesday overruled the motion for a new trial filed by Austin W. Hoschar, 37, of East Liverpool, who had been convicted of forgery.

Hoschar was indicted by the September grand jury on two counts of forgery. A petit jury found him guilty Oct. 8.

He appealed this case to the Seventh District Court of Appeals which upheld the lower court.

On March 25 he was found guilty of the second count, and on April 24 he petitioned for a new trial. Judge Buzzard heard the arguments and reserved his decision until yesterday. The judge withheld sentencing pending possible filing of an appeal by Hoschar.

Appeal Is Filed In Road Mishap Suit

LISBON — An appeal has been filed by Mervin J. Vonada, Noward, Pa., in the civil suit brought by Donald Leroy Moore, of RD 3, Salem, a minor, and William H. Moore and Edith Irene Moore, his parents.

A jury last month awarded $1,500 to Mr. and Mrs. Moore as the result of an auto accident Jan. 13, 1961, in front of Barnett's Motel, west of Salem on Route 62.

The Moores sued for $9,000. It is expected that the case will be heard by the Seventh District Court of Appeals during its fall visit to Columbiana County.

The accident occurred when Vonada, going west, turned left into Barnett's Motel and was struck by the eastbound car driven by Moore.

Prospect's New PTA Officers

Officers for the 1964-65 season were installed when members of the Prospect Street School met Monday night at the school.

Mrs. Wayne Russell, out-going president, presided at ceremonies for the following officers: pictured above: (l. to r.) seated, president, Mrs. Lee Boone, and vice president, Mrs. Charles Galchick; standing, secretary, Mrs. Richard Wanner, and treasurer, Mrs. Robert Houlette.

Establishment of a scholarship memorial to the late Ora Montgomery Lewis, principal of the school for many years, was discussed. It was decided that the organization will consider a cash scholarship to the Salem

Kent Academic Center. Mrs. Russell will appoint a committee to study the matter further.

The program was presented by pupils of the 6th grade taught by Frank Hoopes. After the program members of the class, as special guests, were served refreshments.

Mrs. John Maruskin, Mrs. John Stewart and Mrs. Kenneth Herold presided at the buffet refreshment table as refreshments were served to the approximately 100 in attendance at this last meeting of the season. Mrs. Dwaine Stanley and Mrs. Norman Houger were also members of the hostess committee.

Eastern Stars Hold Inspection Ritual

In a setting of simulated spring-time beauty, Mrs. Rex Huffman of New Lexington, worthy grand matron of Ohio, inspected Salem Chapter, Order of Eastern Star Thursday night at the Masonic Temple. Worthy patron and matron, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ackelson, were presiding officers.

The white satin covered pedestal in the East held a pink diagonal swag across the front and bird house of pink styrofoam with the feathered occupants attired in jaunty spring bonnets on a base of flowers at the bottom. In the West was placed a small bird house on a perch, and the worthy matron's theme, "Faith Through Prayer" was carried out on an insignia on the background curtain.

Distinguished guests present were Mrs. Eddie Preston of Leesville, past grand matron and grand trustee, and the following grand officers of Ohio: Mrs. Wilson Negus of Colerian, associate grand matron; Mrs. John Young of Poland, grand Adah; Mrs. Robert Cromer of North Canton, grand Martha; Mrs. William Schultz of Columbus, grand Electra, and Mrs. Thomas Bartley of Zenia, grand warden.

Deputy grand matrons, Mrs. Howard George of Niles, District 2; Mrs. Virgil Edgerton of Salem, District 13, Mrs. Gust Malavie of East Sparta, District 14 and Mrs. Floyd Bennington of Piedmont, District 15.

Grand representatives to Illinois, Mrs. Laverne Hahlen of Homeworth, and Mrs. Fanchon Liber of Alliance, grand representative to Nebraska.

Soloist of the evening was Mrs. Robert Clark of Youngstown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ackelson. Mrs. Charles Snel was accompanist.

Preceding the inspection a luncheon was served to 225 in the dining room. Nests of spring flowers centered with large variegated colored square candles were interspersed on the tables whose place settings were marked with white mats. Favors were tiny ceramic opened books. Candles and favors were made by Mrs. Karl Ramsden and Mrs. Perry Hilliard Jr., with Mrs. Howard Shearer assisting Mrs. Ramsden and Mrs. Hilliard with the decorations. Mrs. C. H. Waldron and her committee were in charge of the luncheon.

The annual Mother-Daughter banquet will be Monday in the temple. Those planning to attend are to bring a coverdish and table service. Rolls and beverage will be furnished.

The next stated meeting will be June 1. Miss Evelyn Hoch and Mrs. Howard Shearer will be the calling committee, with Mrs. Gladys Green and Mrs. Richard Fenstamaker in charge of the penny lunch.

About a million tons of dust from distant space fall on the earth every year. The cosmic particles are so small that a microscope and special equipment are needed to identify them.

Methodist WSCS Aids Church Fund

Mrs. Robert Stadler presided when 30 members of the Women's Society of Christian Service of the First Methodist Church met recently in the music room of the church.

The group voted to donate $1,000 to the general fund of the church and plans for the annual WSCS North-East Ohio conference May 20 in the local church were discussed.

Becky Taylor and Karen Sanders were chosen to attend the Girls School of Missions at Mount Union College this summer.

The program was in charge of the Hannah Gallagher Group, with Mrs. L. W. Sanders as chairman.

Mrs. Stadler presided at the silver service when refreshments were served by members of the Virginia Baldwin Group. A chapel service, under the direction of Mrs. William Keck, preceded the meeting.

The next meeting will be June 3 at 9:30 a.m. in the church fellowship hall.

Hints From

Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise: My husband has been a cardiac patient for the past two years. I worried constantly about what my reaction would be if he had a serious attack. Then I had an idea.

I cut three strips of paper and wrote down my doctors office and home phone numbers, the fire department and the police department. I attached these to my phone with tape.

Last Monday evening, it happened.

I was more terrified than I thought I would be, but because I could see the numbers right on the phone I was able to get the fire department to bring oxygen within a short time.

Next, I called my doctor and an ambulance. My husband is home again now, and I will never take these numbers from my phone. I think it is a good idea for any home to put these numbers not only on their phone directory, but to tape them directly to their telephone. I might just save a life.

MRS. V. P. DEAR HELOISE: Have you noticed the new plastic top coffee containers at our markets?

I found a terrific use for them. I covered the cans with adhesive-backed paper, and with an ink-type waterproof pen (bought at any stationery store) I wrote on each can "rolled oats", "biscuit mix" ... or whatever they might be needed for.

I used two-pound coffee cans. The one-pound cans may be used for brown sugar or any of the smaller boxed items.

These containers also make beautiful extra canister sets for all those items we fear the weevils will nest in during the summer months. Also keeps items fresh and adds beauty to your cupboards.

DOLORES BOYAJIAN.

DEAR HELOISE: I used canned biscuits for making dumplings. I either roll them out and cut them as one would with regular dumplings, or just pinch off some and drop into a pot of cream of chicken soup.

Cook just a few minutes (or while you fix a salad or cole slaw) and you have a quick lunch, which seems much more filling than just the soup.

CLARA DURGIN.

I tried it with canned chicken with rice soup and cream of chicken soup. Delicious. I used my kitchen scissors to cup them up. Real neat.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: I used a cotton swab, dipped in household bleach, to mark the children's initials in the inside of their galoshes and boots. The bleach will remove the color inside of the boot and the initials are easy to read.

MRS. ALLEN LINDENBERG.

FROM HELOISE'S KITCHEN

DEAR FOLKS: The other day I was in a real hurry to bake a pie. Yes, I sometimes used boxed puddings.

Not having any eggs (yes, sometimes I run out!), after pouring in the chocolate filling I covered the top of the pie with marshmallows, stuck it back into my oven and let the marshmallows melt and brown a little bit.

The result was that my family liked this even better than my good old meringue. If you are ever in a hurry you might try this.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: For those mothers who stand for hours at the ironing board, take my advice:

I place two pairs of comfortable shoes by my ironing board. I change shoes every half hour. This does wonders for your legs and you can last much longer when ironing.

MARY TIBBOTS.

DEAR HELOISE: My encyclopedia says that stains made on linen by coffee or tea can be removed by moistening the material with glycerine, allowing it to stand for a time and then steaming or washing it with hot soapy water.

MRS. B. C.

DEAR HELOISE: I recently had the misfortune of putting a nice white shirt that was chlorine retentive into the washer with bleach.

When the iron touched it, it turned yellow. I soaked it for several hours in some cold water and vinegar solution. I used one cupful of vinegar to a basin of water. It solves my problem.

I do not claim this as my own discovery ... an electrician once said "vinegar would counteract" certain acids. If this will help others I will be well paid for the few minutes spent passing it on.

MRS. T. J. PINION.

LADIES: If you're completely lost, your shirt is old, and you have nothing to lose ... try it! Believe it, I wish all of us housewives could put all our dimes together and buy a vinegar factory!

Let us know what results you have using Mrs. Pinion's method. She might have discovered something!

An alumna of Archbold High School and Marywood College, Miss Burke is employed as teacher at the Somerset Elementary School in Prince George County, Md.

Lt. Judge is a graduate of David Anderson High School and the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis and is stationed aboard the U. S. S. Richadr B. Anderson, based at San Francisco.

A wedding is being planned for June 27 at 11:30 a.m. in St. Thomas Aquinas Church at Archbold.

E. Liverpool, Warren Men Receive Paroles

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A Warren man, convicted of murder in a slaying which happened just before he reported to the Army in 1943, will be paroled next month from Ohio Penitentiary.

He is Willie Moore, 43, whose sentence was commuted April 6 by Gov. James A. Rhodes from first to second-degree murder, making him eligible for parole. Moore was convicted in the holdup-slaying of Warren service station attendant Leroy Reynolds in 1943 and was received Feb. 17, 1944.

Another parole announced today by the Pardon and Parole Commission, effective about June 4, is for Raymond J. Campbell, 28, East Liverpool, received June 20, 1961, for manslaughter in the fatal shooting of his wife Doris Mae after a quarrel.

FISHERMAN CITED

LISBON — Irving Cobb, 20, Canton, was given a $15 suspended fine Tuesday by County Judge James L. MacDonald for fishing without a valid fishing license. He paid $6.50 costs and was ordered to purchase a license. He was cited by James Kelley, state game protector, while fishing at Guilford Lake.

URGES USE OF PORT

LONDON (AP)—A three-man mission from the Port of Toledo, Ohio, has recommended to British shippers the advantages of using the Lake Erie port for commerce. The trade mission is designed to acquaint importers and exporters with the opportunities available through the St. Lawrence Seaway to Toledo. The mission leaves next Sunday for Hamburg, Germany.

GIRL ESCAPEES NABBED

SEYMOUR, Ind. (AP)—Carol Ann Routt, 16, of Cincinnati and Nancy Carolina Adams, 17, of Smith's Ferry, Pa., were being held for Ohio authorities today to return them to the Ohio Industrial School for Girls in Delaware.

Officials said the girls escaped from the institution Monday night and stole a car in Dublin, Ohio. They were captured Tuesday after the car ran out of gas officials said.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY

LIMA, Ohio (AP)—Bond has been set at $2,500 for Mrs. Viola McDowell, 47, of Lima, who pleaded innocent Tuesday to a first-degree manslaughter charge. Police said she told them she shot and killed Willie B. Carter, 38, also of Lima, last Sunday, after he forced his way into her home.

Lodge at Leetonia To Hold Initiation

By MRS. HOMER KRIDLER
LEETONIA — Plans for initiation of new members were discussed when 10 members of D. Wallace Rebekah Lodge met with Mrs. Victor Poppel, noble grand, presiding. Initiation will be held at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the hall.

Members are asked to wear formals and to bring a salad for a salad smorgasbord. Mrs. William Floding, degree captain, will be in charge of degree work.

Merle Davis, Methodist Church Sunday School superintendent, announces that Unity Class will not hold its regular class meeting Thursday.

Third grade level students from Leetonia schools will go on a field trip Friday. They will be taken on a tour through a Youngstown dairy in the morning, have a sack lunch at noon in Mill Creek Park, and visit a bakery in the afternoon.

Third level teachers, Miss Ruth Bauman of Southside, Miss Hazel Ginter of Orchard Hill and Mrs. Daniel Calvin of Washingtonville, will accompany the students.

Pastor and Mrs. T. P. Laughner have received word of the arrival of a new grandson, Peter James Stull, born Friday to Dr. and Mrs. James Stull in Liberia, Africa. Sydney Stull will be returning to the States in June to enroll in a high school in Indianapolis Ind. this fall.

Seven tables of "500" were in play at the weekly card party given by the Rebekah Lodge. Prizes went to Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Dugan, Fred Girard and Mrs. Elsie Glasgow.

Lunch was served by the committee, headed by Mrs. Vic Poppel.

Next card party is scheduled for 8 p.m. Thursday in the Lodge Hall on Chestnut St. The public is invited to attend.

Annual Eastern area Lutheran Service Society delegate meeting will be held in Hope Lutheran Church of Youngstown Thursday. Fred Floding and Alvin Fire are the delegates from St. Paul's. Richard Stitler was elected to serve as lay-delegate

Tuesday night to serve his 28th consecutive year as chairman of the Clark County Republican Executive Committee.

Deaths Funerals

Risty R. Krepps

Risty Russell Krepps, 58, of 1080 Jones Drive died of complications at 9:30 a.m. today in the Central Clinic Hospital following a five-year illness.

Born in Beaver, Pa., May 4, 1905, the son of Thomas and Mary Marker Krepps, he lived in Salem most of his life and until five years ago had been employed as warehouseman by the Salem China Co. for 33 years.

He was a member of the First Christian Church and the Veterans of Foreign Wars and was a veteran of World War II.

Mr. Krepps is survived by his wife, Elsie Wilt Krepps, whom he married Dec. 1, 1946; a daughter, Mrs. Herman Linder, and a son, Jack Krepps, both of Salem; two sisters, Mrs. Alva Day of Salem, and Mrs. Zella Clark of California, and seven grandchildren. Two brothers, Oscar and Castle, preceded him in death.

Services will be Friday at 2 p.m. in the Stark Memorial, with Rev. Harold Deitch officiating. Burial will be in Hope Cemetery.

Friends may call at the Memorial Thursday from 7 to 9 p.m.

Forrest Hill

CANTON — Services will be held at 1 p.m. Friday at the Jack Funeral Home for Forrest Hill, 63, of 3029 Morris St. NE, who died Tuesday at Mercy Hospital.

He was a conductor for the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Surviving besides his wife, Esther, are one daughter and four sons, including one son, John Hill of Salem.

Friends may call from 2 to 4 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. Thursday at the funeral home. Burial will be in Fairmont Memorial Park at Alliance.

Mrs. Geo. Johnson

LEETONIA — Mrs. Estella Mae Johnson, 78, of 397 Columbia St. died of a cerebral hemorrhage at 1 a.m. today in Salem City Hospital where she had been a patient for one month.

Born Oct. 29, 1885, in Fairfield Township, she was the daughter of Jonas and Christine Gerken Beihart. On June 22, 1913, she married George Johnson who died in 1931. She was a member of St. Paul's Lutheran Church and Priscilla Class of the church.

Surviving are a sister, Mrs. Louis Hoffman of Leetonia; and two brothers, George Beihart of East Palestine and Arch Beihart of Leetonia.

Services will be at 2 p.m. Friday at St. Paul's Lutheran Church with Rev. T. P. Laughner officiating. Burial will be in Oakdale Cemetery. The body will lie in state at the church one hour before service time.

Friends may call Thursday evening at the Seedyer-Beihart Funeral Home in Columbiana.

him. The other two are uncommitted.

Rhode Island Republicans blocked an effort by Goldwater supporters to increase their strength on the state delegation, but at least two of the 14 chosen Tuesday are for the senator. One is for Rockefeller, one for Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania and the rest uncommitted.

Cecil H. Underwood, governor of West Virginia from 1957 to 1961, began his quest for a second term with a thumping Republican primary victory over two relatively unknown Republican candidates.

His Democratic opponent in the November election to succeed Gov. William W. Barron—who cannot succeed himself—appeared to be former State Commerce Commissioner Hulet C. Smith. Smith led a field of four in the Democratic primary with about half the votes counted.

Sen. Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia easily won the Democratic nomination for a second term. His Republican opponent, unopposed Tuesday, will be Cooper P. Benedict.

In Nebraska, Gov. Morrison whipped two opponents in the Democratic primary, but the Republican nomination was still unsettled. Lt. Gov. Dwight Burney was leading a field of five.

Sen. Roman L. Hruska of Nebraska had no Republican primary opposition for nomination for another term. His Democratic foe in November will be Raymond Arndt, also unopposed for the nomination.

Panama Picks Robles, Arias Claims Fraud

PANAMA (AP) — Government candidate Marco A. Robles is Panama's new president-elect, on the basis of nearly complete returns. The pre-election favorite, ex-President Arnulfo Arias, denounced the outcome as a "most scandalous fraud."

Returns from 1,039 of the 1,144 precincts gave Robles an 11,066-vote margin over Arias—124,830 to 113,764. With seven candidates in the field, Robles got about 40 per cent of the total vote.

Arias claimed official figures released by the Election Tribunal were spurious and said the people would not tolerate violation of their will. He gave no indication of personal action to challenge the results of Sunday's voting.

Col. Bolivar Vallarino, commander of the 3,000-man National Guard, was expected to take decisive action against any violent protests by Arias supporters. Vallarino generally is considered an opponent of Arias and is blamed by the ex-president for his ouster from office in 1941 and again in 1951.

The National Electoral Review Junta will meet Saturday to begin a scrutiny of election documents for any irregularities. It was generally expected that the junta's findings would not appreciably change the results.

Juan de Arco Galindo, who ran far behind in third place, also questioned the official figures.

President Robert Chirri's government took stringent precautions against voting frauds. It was these new safeguards which delayed the final count three days.

Each of the 19 parties had one man and the National Electoral Tribunal two at each of the 1,141 voting stations. Travel was prohibited on voting day, except for cases of proven emergency. This was to prevent voters being "ucked from one part of the country to another."

Robles, a 58-year-old banker-politician, was Chirri's minister of government and justice until five months ago. He drew most of his strength from rural areas.

The president-elect has promised a firm stand in negotiations with the United States on Canal Zone treaty issues. He planned a California vacation as soon as he was certified president-elect. His term, beginning Oct. 1, will be for four years.

America's Top Cop—40 Years on the Job

HOOVER, at 30, was named FBI director in 1924.

J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, has completed 40 years as America's top law enforcement officer. President Johnson may want him to continue on the job, even though Hoover will reach the government retirement age of 70 on Jan. 1. The FBI chief has been an adviser to seven presidents, starting with Calvin Coolidge.

HE OFTEN TAKES personal command of important FBI activities. A kidnap case brought him to New York in 1935.

When he took over the Bureau in 1924, it had the lowest morale, poorest personnel and the worst reputation of any agency in the federal government. Today, it stands for the finest in law enforcement. Hoover, a bachelor, is an avid sports enthusiast and can often be seen at race tracks near Washington, D.C. The director is in close daily contact with his agents.

Little Joe Rocket Test Successful

WHITE SANDS MISSILE RANGE, N.M. (AP) — The fiery explosion of a Little Joe II rocket shattered the early morning calm today in a test of the Apollo moon spacecraft launch escape system.

Early indications from National Aeronautics and Space Administration officials were that the test, the first of five of the Apollo escape system, was successful. It had been delayed 24 hours because of winds and dust storm Tuesday.

Little Joe II blasted into the sky about 6 a.m. (MST) from a cloud of dust caused by the rocket's seven solid fuel engines, generating more than 300,000 pounds of thrust.

Climbing to 22,000 feet altitude in about 30 seconds, the 86-foot tall vehicle stacked with boilerplate models of the Apollo command and service modules, reached a maximum aerodynamic stress period at the time of the explosion that was set off by ground signal.

At the same instant, explosive bolts separated the command modules, reached a maximum rocket and the 155,000-pound thrust escape rocket fired, carrying the command module an additional 4,000 feet higher.

Safely away from the explosion, the command module, which will carry astronauts to the moon, separated from the escape tower.

About 7½ minutes after the firing, the command module, suspended by parachutes, floated to the desert floor about five miles from the launch site.

Ohio Merchants Unit Names McCulloch

Robert McCulloch, Jr., of the R. S. McCulloch store, has been appointed to the Ohio State Council of Retail Merchants' legislative action committee for the 20th, 22nd State Senatorial District. Announcement of his appointment was made today in Columbus by George B. Hammond, Council executive director.

Purpose of the committee is to serve as a liaison between retailing and consumers, elected officials, communications media and the public.

Driver Hurt In One of 2 Mishaps

A Dover motorist was slightly hurt and a truck driver lost part of his load of milk in two one-vehicle mishaps Tuesday on district highways.

Homer E. Mellinger, 47, of Dover suffered head cuts and body bruises when his car hit a telephone pole at 10:55 p.m. on Route 344, a half-mile south of Leetonia. The Lisbon post of the State Highway Patrol reported Mellinger was heading north when he went off the right side, striking the object. He was cited for speed excessive for conditions.

Several cans of milk were spilled from a truck operated by Allen G. Welner, 23, of Georgetown, Pa., when his right front tire blew out and the vehicle struck a guard rail and farm fence at 10:40 a.m. on Route 30, three miles east of Hanover. The truck veered off the right side and plowed into a fence on the property of James Bernet of RD 1, Hanover. The trucker was not hurt and the vehicle was moderately damaged.

Two bus drivers were approved for employment for the 1964-65 year. They are Robert McDonald, who had been a driver earlier, and Vernon Egli, who was selected from the substitute driver list.

Mrs. Marilyn Holey was issued a new teaching contract. She was inadvertently passed by when teachers' contracts were recently reviewed.

Executive secretary Peg Israel of RD 1, Beloit, was granted a year's leave of absence due to ill health. Senior girls in office practice have been serving in her place until a replacement is chosen.

Executive head Clinton Heacock was authorized to have the fire extinguishers in all buildings serviced prior to the state fire marshal's inspection next fall.

The board also renewed its floater policy with the Jones Insurance Agency of Salem, authorizing them to write insurance on band instruments, typewriters and commercial department equipment.

Action was tabled on the proposal to install automatic floodlights of the "seeing eye" type around the new high school.

Heacock reported a change in the new school calendar since its adoption. The Mahoning All-County Spring meeting of administrators and teachers will be held April 7, 1965, he said.

The board rented the junior high cafeteria at Damascus to the Friends Association for their yearly meeting in July.

Kindergarten, Vo-ag Survey on In W. Branch Area

Anyone for a course to teach farm boys? Or kindergarten?

How West Branch School District residents feel on the launching of a vocational agriculture program or pre-school sessions will be found out in a current survey by the Board of Education.

The questionnaires on the two matters will be distributed by school enumerators when they take the census this month, executive head Clinton Heacock says.

Vocational agriculture has never been offered in this area although more than 90 per cent of the students are either farm or rural residents. Beloit is the sole municipality in the district which is dotted with some of the lushest farms in the state.

The questionnaire will also ask, "Do you desire the Board of Education to include kindergarten in the school program?"

The program is estimated to cost some $20,000 a year if it is fully paid for by the school. The board hopes to learn if people would be willing to vote an additional levy to pay for the program.

Currently a kindergarten program exists whereby the parents pay for the instructors while the school furnishes classroom space and transportation one way.

Court

sinking fund commissioners from issuing bonds.

But Lynch asserted he was concerned about possible impairment of the contract for repayment of 1955 bond holders from an extra one-cent tax on cigarettes.

The 1963 legislature provided for continued collection of the penny tax until Dec. 31, 1964.

The enactment authorized the finance director after that date to certify collection or suspension of the levy by the tax commissioner.

Lynch termed the provision an unlawful delegation of legislative power to the finance director.

The high court said that anyone attacking constitutionality of statute or ordinance must have a direct interest in the litigation.

"Lynch's only interest," the court noted, "is that of any resident or taxpayer. We must conclude in the face of these facts that relator (Lynch) could not be adversely affected by an decision sustaining the statute. Hence he has no standing to bring this action."

Saxbe said that legislative action permits immediate use of a potential $108 million surplus in the bond fund which otherwise would not be available until the 1977 bond retirement date.

West Branch Gets $4,807 Tax 'Gift'

West Branch School District will be $4,807 richer and Sebring School District that much poorer when the 1964 Mahoning County personal property tax settlement is made. West Branch owes its good fortune to a "boo-boo" in the Mahoning County auditor's office under former auditor Stephen Olenick.

The West Branch Board of Education has been advised by the Common Pleas Court that the mix-up occurred in the county auditor's office when the two schools were formed in July, 1960, from the former Mahoning Local district.

The error apparently arose from the geographical location of certain taxable properties in the districts after the division in 1960.

The court has ordered that the auditor and treasurer adjust the matter by withholding the $4,807 from the 1964 property tax settlement due Sebring and paying it to West Branch.

The matter will either be corrected in the tax period now closing or in the October settlement.

The court's entry was announced to the West Branch Board of Education by executive head Clinton Heacock at the board's session Tuesday night.

Rhodes declined comment about a more recent report from Washington that a draft of changes in the Appalachia program had been sent to governors of the participating states.

The report said a proposed $3 million allocation had been boosted to $10 million for use in areas ravaged by coal mining. Rhodes said he had not seen the report.

Suddenly, as the surgeon turned his back, the Cuban snatched a scalpel and stabbed it deep into his chest.

"It was a surgeon's job," the hospital spokesman said. "It rent the heart, opening a big wound that made it easy for doctors to get to the heart and massage it."

He died about two hours later, despite the efforts of a score of medical men and nurses to save him.

Reposo, who attended the University of Havana Medical School and was a 1949 graduate of Albany Medical College, was scheduled to begin a residency in internal medicine this summer at the hospital where he died.

The hospital said he was divorced and the father of two. His mother reportedly lives in Cuba.

He had come here from California about two months ago, but it was not known what he had been doing there. He had lived here in a rented room.

Mrs. Robert Kelm presented a petition bearing over 150 names urging the board to reconsider the dismissal of band director John Creatura. Board members restated that financial reasons forced them to dismiss the teacher.

The board approved Nationwide Insurance Co. policies at a cost of $3 per pupil. The Farmers National Bank was given permission to resume a practice of writing letters of recognition to graduating seniors.

The board scheduled a special meeting for May 26 to discuss the curriculum program study and hear teachers John Spina and Harry Riser discuss developments in the field of science. Bills of $34,875.71 for payrolls and $5,193.52 for supplies were ordered paid. The board's next regular meeting will be June 9 at 7:30 p.m.

In Agriculture, U.S. Outclasses Russia

USING LESS LAND and fewer people—but considerably more capital—the United States outproduces the Soviet Union in virtually every major agricultural area, according to the National Industrial Conference Board's "Road Map of Industry." Russia out-ranks the United States only in its yield per acre of cotton lint—545 pounds to 457 pounds. But America holds a decisive advantage in the yield of all other items shown on the newscharts.

Dr. Mervin G. Smith, chairman of the department of agricultural economics and rural sociology at Ohio State University, has been elected chairman of the Ohio Farm-City Committee for 1964.

Other officers are Claude I. Hummel, agricultural representative of the Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland, vice chairman; and Lester J. Miller of the B. and O. Railroad, Columbus, secretary. Dr. Smith, who was vice chairman last year, succeeds W. B. Wood, former director of the Ohio Cooperative Extension Service, who is now in India.

The 10th annual observance of National Farm-City Week will be next Nov. 20-26.

Alfalfa Weevil Threat

That menace of Ohio alfalfa fields is back again. Alfalfa weevil larvae are hatching. Unless controlled, they will eat their way through dozens of fields within the next few weeks.

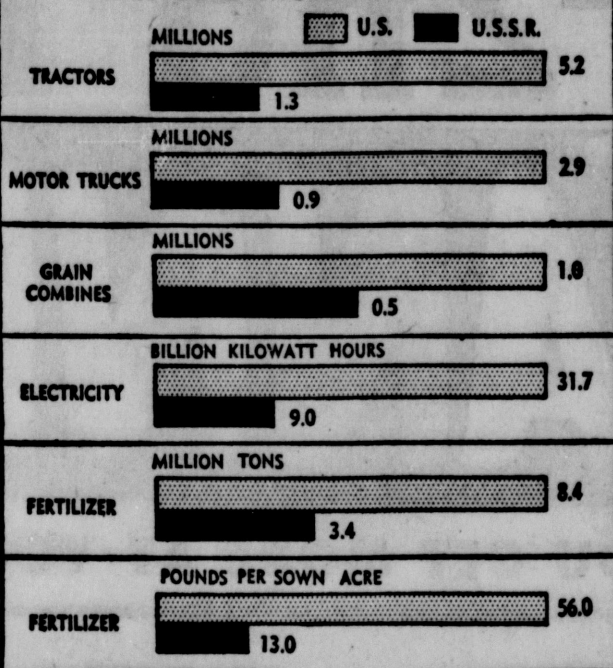

B. D. Blair, Ohio State University Extension entomologist, predicts infestations of "economic proportions" in these 20 counties: Columbiana, Carroll, Tuscarawas, Harrison, Jefferson, Belmont, Guernsey, Muskingum, Monroe, Noble, Morgan, Washington, Athens, Hocking, Vinton, Meigs, Jackson, Gallia, Lawrence, and Scioto.

The alfalfa weevil, found first in Ohio in 1960, had spread last year into 30 counties. Unlike many other destructive insects, the weevil causes damage every year, and unless control measures are taken, the first cutting of alfalfa, and sometimes the following regrowth are almost total losses.

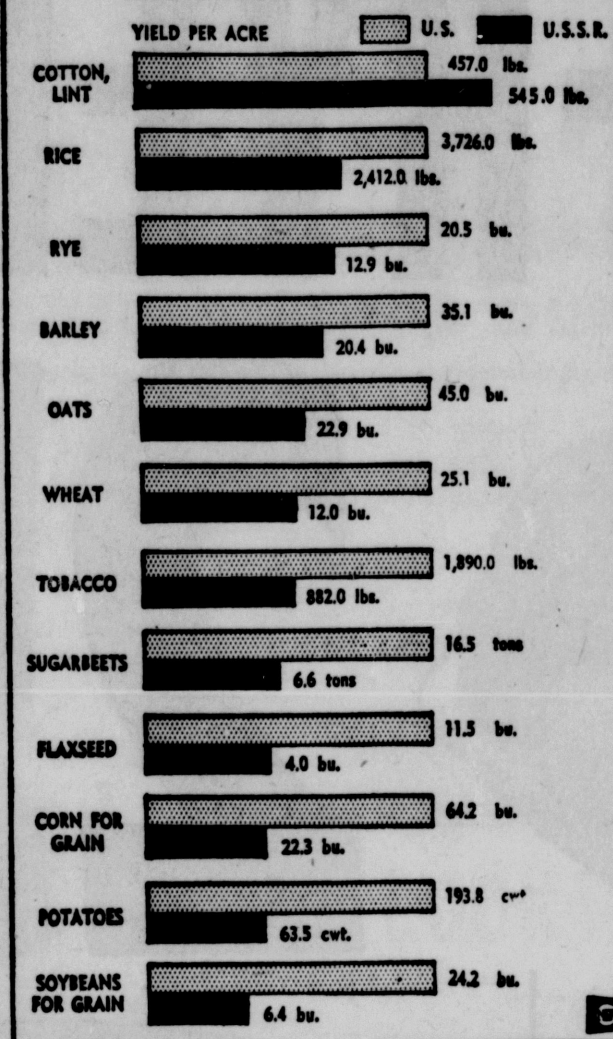

Most of the larval population in the spring is believed to hatch from eggs deposited in alfalfa stems by overwintering adults. Eggs begin hatching in early May in the northern counties. The newly hatched larvae are about 1-32 of an inch long, mature larvae about 3/8 of an inch, green with one distinct white stripe along the middle of the back.

The larval feeding period lasts three or four weeks, Blair says. In the beginning of the season, larval feeding is found in the top of the plant. As the population increases, all the leaves except veins and midribs, are consumed. The larvae then crawl, or drop to the ground where they spin a frail, lace-like cocoon in which they pass through a resting stage. In from 10 to 15 days they emerge as brown snout beetles.

Complete control recommendations are available at County Extension offices.

Wheat Program Deadline

Ohio farmers must sign up and participate in the 1964 wheat program to be eligible for marketing certificates and diversion payments on this year's wheat crop, advise Drs. Wallace Barr and John Bottom, Ohio State University Extension economists. The sign-up period began May 1 and continues through May 15 at county ASC offices.

A farmer must devote acreage equal to 11.11 per cent of his 1964 farm wheat allotment to an approved conservation use to be eligible for certificates and diversion payments. In addition, he must maintain his conserving base acreage, and tobacco farmers must produce any other farm in which they within their wheat allotments have an interest.

By signing and meeting all of the provisions, a farmer will be eligible for marketing certificates up to 90 per cent of the normal production on the farm wheat allotment.

Irrigation Good Insurance

Irrigation can provide good insurance for specialized crops during a dry year, such as 1963 in the North Central States. The practice also can be used to help produce a fairly constant supply of a commodity, according to Dr. R. B. Curry, agricultural engineer at the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station.

Speaking at the Tri-State ASAE meeting at Fort Wayne, Ind., Dr. Curry discussed irrigation design studies being conducted on apples, sweet corn and tobacco at the Ohio Station.

Results to date indicate that adequate design and management are big factors in getting the most benefit from supplemental water. Too much extra water can be almost as detrimental as not enough by decreasing quality as well as yields, Dr. Curry said.

Both apples and sweet corn yielded better at the Ohio Station when a moderate level of soil moisture was maintained by supplemental irrigation. Tobacco yields have not been increased during the past six years. This may indicate that a critical dry period for this crop has not occurred during that time. But with the high value of the tobacco crop, the cost of an irrigation system could be justified if a crop was saved only once in 10 years.

Soil type and varieties grown are important in determining irrigation needs. In many cases there may be an interaction between irrigation and variety. Thus, these factors should be considered when planning an irrigation system.

The cost of an irrigation system is easily justified when used on crops of high value per acre. Benefits need not be derived every year. An irrigation system then will be a tool to insure a steady level of output and a protection against crop failure in drought years, Dr. Curry said.

APPLE THINNING SPRAY

Apples on trees sprayed with naphthaleneacetic acid (NAA) contained a higher percentage of seeds with degenerating embryos and endosperm than those from unsprayed trees, in chemical thinning tests at the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station.

Horticulturist Fred O. Hartman says that orchardists have been using NAA to thin apples for almost 20 years. Those apples remaining on the trees develop larger size, better color and flavor. Thinning also aids in promoting annual production of fruit. Often, however, the degree of fruit thinning has been too small or too great.

The anatomical studies reported by Dr. Hartman reveal to some extent the mechanism involved in chemical thinning. Further, the studies partly explain differences in fruit setting behavior of some varieties.

Retardation of growth and degeneration of the embryo appeared to be speeded up with earlier applications of NAA. The applications were made within a week or ten days after petal fall. Condition of the embryos was quite variable with later sprays, says Dr. Hartman. Some degenerated, but others appeared comparable to those from the unsprayed trees although the seeds were collapsing.

Jonathan was the variety which showed a somewhat greater percentage of seeds with degenerating embryo and endosperm. Delicious and Golden Delicious had the least.

SHORTS AND MIDLINGS

Farm real estate values in the U. S. reached record levels in the closing months of 1963. For a 12-month period ending Nov. 1 values increased 6 per cent. Ohio values increased 5 per cent in the same period, according to Ohio State University Extension economists.

Liming an acid soil puts new life into the microbial population, Ohio State University agronomists point out.

With modern farm machinery, a farmer today can raise about three times as many acres of crops as his father could 50 years ago.

When leasing mineral rights on a farm, do not sign any lease until it has been checked by an attorney, advise Ohio University economists.

Matter of Fact

"Robot" is a word long used in many languages. Derived from the Czech "robota," it came into popular use after 1923 through the play "R.U.R. (Rossum's Universal Robots)" by the Czech writer Karl Capek. In this play a society is described which depends on mechanical workers that can do physical and mental work, and then develop intelligences and revolt against their employers.

The Doctor Says

By Dr. WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT
Prevention of Heart Trouble

The treatment of angina pectoris is mostly a matter of prevention — avoiding causes and taking drugs that will keep the coronary arteries open. A surgical measure should be used only as a last resort. They are of little help in preventing the simplest of these is the old-fashioned drawing off a half pint of blood. This is of value only if it can be shown that the victim's blood is abnormally thick. In such persons the relief may last for several months.

Another procedure that is not limited to persons with thickened blood is to open the sac that encloses the heart and dust sterile talcum powder on the outer surface of the heart. This sets up a foreign body reaction and stimulates the production of new blood vessels in the wall of the heart. This operation works better in theory than in practice.

Pursuing this approach even further, Dr. Vineburg of McGill University, Montreal, peels away the outer covering of the heart itself and implants a thin sheet of sponge. He then sews the outer heart membrane together again. His results have been much better than those following the use of talcum powder.

Q—What causes thin vessels and what treatment is recommended?

A—Thin vessels, sometimes referred to as liver spots, is a mild skin infection caused by a fungus. It consists of light brown patches that do not itch and are not raised above the level of the normal skin. Most persons with this condition ignore it, especially if it is on a part of the body that is normally covered. If treatment is desired, Pragma ointment or a lotion containing sulfur and resorcin may be used.

Q—The doctor says my sister has Addison's disease. Is this serious?

A—In Addison's disease the function of the adrenal glands is greatly reduced due to advanced age or destruction of the gland tissue by tuberculosis or a tumor. The disease is characterized by slowly progressive weakness, loss of appetite, loss of weight, abnormally low blood pressure and a generalized brown pigmentation of the skin. Until the adrenal cortical hormones became available in recent years the disease was always fatal. But these drugs replace the secretions of the failing gland, thus resembling insulin for diabetics. They may therefore be considered truly lifesaving.

The Conestoga Wagon, or prairie schooner, was responsible for causing American traffic to move on the right hand side of the road. Early colonists had perpetuated the English custom of keeping to the left, and carriages and wagons were driven from the right side. However, the Conestoga wagon had to be guided from the left side, and drivers, to get a clear view of the road ahead, began to keep their vehicles to the right.

THE POWER OF POSITIVE FAMILY ACTION

As a newspaperboy, Jim always has been quite willing to accept full responsibility for the success or failure of his own business. Indeed, the challenge of this responsibility has been most important to his development. He has learned to manage time and money. He has acquired self-confidence and poise. He knows how important it is to be punctual and friendly.

But the thing that has been of most help to Jim from the very start is knowing that his parents were behind him. They gave him encouragement and constructive advice when he needed it. They pointed out ways to get new customers and improve his service.

This sort of "team" effort has brought the entire family more closely together. Sharing the joys of success has seemed to make the achievement that much more worthwhile. The power of positive family action cannot be underestimated.

TV-Radio Today

By ALAN GILL
The World Series gets on TV these years at a $3.5 million tab, or between $500,000 and $750,000 a game. Four months ago, CBS-TV nabbed the season's long telecast rights to the National Football League games for this season and next for $28.2 million.

But it wasn't until late April, when CBS won out with a bid of $1.8 million for one game — the NFL championship — that most people began to realize televised sports is very big business, indeed.

I WAS TALKING recently to one of the pioneers of televised sports, Chicago's Walter Schwimmer, and he said: "Frankly I'm alarmed. Unless it wakes up, sports is going to price itself right out of business. It's plain old-fashioned crazy, like the production costs on Cleopatra."

This attitude does not suggest, however, that Mr. Schwimmer takes a dim view of the highest-priced golf event in the TV year, his own 'World Series of Golf,' which will burn up 180 minutes of NBC-TV weekend time Sept. 12 and 13.

"After all," he said, "we give away the biggest single award — $50,000. We put on a bigger extravaganza. We bring in the winner from the British Open. So it costs a bit."

WALTER SCHWIMMER wasn't, however, in the mood to say how much. Schwimmer introduced golf to television in 1956, when it was thought to be deliberate in pace, limited in appeal, and just too unphotogenic for TV use.

"We filmed a show that's never been seen and I think it's still one of the best. We took Gary Middlecoff, who was then the USGA champ, and Sam Snead out onto the Cog Hill course outside Chicago and filmed all 18 holes. Snead won by a stroke.

"We learned a lot that day: that a camera can pull a golf ball in out of the clouds, that a cameraman up on a 'giraffe' can get a great shot down at the action on the green. The rushes were so dark, though, we thought we were looking at 'The Great Train Robbery.'"

"WE WERE SURE we'd flopped. But with some light changes, our print was fine. We edited the 20,000 feet of film down to 2,000 — one hour — and we knew we had something. We called it 'All-Star Golf' and got it on TV for seven years.

"About four years later, we were about to do a wrap-up TV show on the sports year. We decided we'd show the best football player of the year, the best baseball player, etc. But when we got to golf, we thought, 'How can you determine that? Is he the winner of the U. S. Open, the PGA, the Masters, the British Open?'"

"And then, it was like a light bulb over the head: 'Why not take the winners of the four major tournaments and let 'em fight it out? You see, I'm a master of the obvious.'"

"THE IDEA took two years to get on the air. NBC carried it in '62 and '63 and will carry it this year, too.

"As you know, Arnold Palmer won the Masters and we're glad we've got him; he's a wonderful guy and a fantastic competitor. The golf 'World Series' is the most widely seen sports event, globally.

"Last year, the rights were bought for the United Kingdom, Denmark, Sweden, Australia, Canada, Japan, the Philippines

SOPHIE'S 'GOING LIKE SIXTY' — Singer Sophie Tucker, honoring her 60th anniversary in show business. Still an entertainer, Sophie was honored in New York City by The Troupers, an organization of the wives of show business personalities. 75, billed as the last of the redhot mammas, holds trophy and six more countries, including Rhodesia." Schwimmer himself doesn't play golf. Tennis is his game. And he plays bridge well enough to sit in with the champs. (A Schwimmer-produced series "Championship Bridge With Charles Goren," is now in its fifth season.)

"THE GREATEST kind of television sport," he said, "is one you can explain in less than 60 seconds."

(Schwimmer thereupon explained bowling to me in less than 30, along with the reminder that another of his projects, "Championship Bowling," is now seen in 171 markets.) But as a spectator, Walter Schwimmer says he is fairly impartial.

"I'm the guy you see with the hot dog, the soft drinks, the beer: Joe Public."

Ol' Joe Public Schwimmer, who had a "nice little empire" back in the days of radio ("John Nesbitt's Passing Parade," a long-haired disc jockey show that featured Deems Taylor, and other programs) and who then introduced the first televised quiz show, "Teletest," currently is working on a pilot film for "Championship Tennis" and for a new horse racing show called "Let's Go to the Races."

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Kridler visited their mother, Mrs. Mary Kridler of Columbiana.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Powell of Damascus visited Mr. and Mrs. Richard Cope.

The daughters of Mrs. George Van Fossan brought dinner to her home.

Mrs. Wallace King of Lisbon, was a visitor at George Van Fossan's home.

Social Events In Lisbon Area

By ETTA MAE ALEXANDER
Job's Daughters named Miss Stephanie Griffith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Byron Griffith of W. Spruce St., as recipient of the merit award at a meeting at the Masonic Temple Monday evening.

The award will be presented at the International Order of Job's Daughters grand session June 19 at the Canton Masonic Temple.

Delegates of the local Bethel will be Miss Nancy Sexton and Miss Candi Hill.

At the next meeting, May 25, officers will be elected. Miss Kathleen Arnold is the honored queen of the local Bethel.

Mrs. John Chamberlain of W. Maple St. was honored at a family dinner party on Mother's Day, given by her daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Benner of Homeworth.

Attending were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Benner Jr. of Brecksville, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Huff of Negley, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Chamberlain and Mr. and Mrs. Renis Perkins of Lisbon.

THE WEST POINT grange will sponsor a public dance Friday evening at 9 at the grange hall.

Music for round and square dancing will be furnished by the Midwestern Playboys. Dale Gorbey will call the square dances.

The annual mother-daughter communion breakfast, sponsored by the Altar and Rosary Society of St. George's Catholic Church, will be held Sunday following the 10 a.m. mass.

Reservations may be made by calling Mrs. James McLoughlin, Mrs. Glen Iltis or Mrs. William Thompson. All women of the church are invited.

The Past Presidents Parley of the American Legion Auxiliary met at the home of Mrs. Galen Kenty of Fairfield Road Monday evening.

Following the business meeting, a silent auction was held.

On June 6, the group will meet at the home of Mrs. Homer Ferguson of N. Jefferson St.

THE VICTORY CLUB was entertained Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Clarence Fife of Vine St. Mrs. Clyde Meehan was a guest.

Prizes for cards were awarded to Mrs. John Chilik and Mrs. Victor Williams.

Hostess for the club May 25 will be Mrs. James Babb of N. Jefferson St.

Miss Esther Peterson of W. Lincoln Way is visiting her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Wallace of Atlantic, Pa., former Lisbon residents.

Ohio 5-Day Forecasts

NORTHERN OHIO — Cooler weather Thursday will be followed by warmer over the weekend. Temperatures Thursday to Monday will average 4-7 degrees above normal high of 69-71 and low 46-51. Precipitation will be generally light tenths of an inch or less in scattered showers tonight and early next week.

SOUTHERN AND CENTRAL OHIO — Temperatures will average 4-8 degrees above normal high of 71-77, low 49-53. Total rainfall will average one quarter of an inch or less in thunder showers first of week.

OHIO BANK ROBBED

TIFFIN, Ohio (AP)—A robber whose head and face were wrapped in bandages with only his eyes showing, held up the Old Fort Bank in Old Fort and fled with more than $2,300. Sheriff's deputies said the robber escaped with the contents of one cash drawer in the hold-up Tuesday. A teller provided officers with part of the license number on the old model car in which the robber fled.

IN MEMORY — Wearing his father's uniform cap, Edward Callahan, 5, snaps a military salute during ceremonies dedicating a Square at Malden, Mass., in memory of the late police officer father who was shot to death in line of duty.

MASKED MARVEL — Tinker is a member of the Wayne Adkins household in Pe Ell, Washington. Adkins works with a power saw crew on a nearby Weyerhaeuser tree farm and adopted the orphan raccoon when it was tiny. It's an ideal pet, romps with the children and loves to ride in the car. Tinker's greatest accomplishment is operating the street water fountain while on a walk. Most disconcerting trick: suddenly switching channels on the television set.

MOTHER SHOT TO DEATH

CLEVELAND (AP) — Parma police said a 37-year-old mother of three was shot to death Tuesday night during an argument with her husband. Police Capt. Leonard Benedict said Mrs. Margaret V. Nakonek was shot several times.

Two of the children, Susan, 15, and Michael, 13, told police they were doing homework and heard their father, Leo, 44, and mother arguing in the living room of the home. The children, terrified when they heard shots, ran from the home. Neighbors also heard the shots and called police.

Cleveland's Eighth Inning Rally Edges Boston 6-5

Tribe Blows Early Margin

Indians Hit 28 HRs In Last 22 Contests

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Indians are hitting home runs at a merry clip to stay near the top of the American League heap.

The Indians have hit at least one homer in each of their last eight games—including the four straight they dropped to the New York Yankees—and now have a total of 28 for 22 games.

Woodie Held rapped his sixth of the season Tuesday night as the Tribe, after squandering a four-run lead, came back to edge the Boston Red Sox 6-5.

Held's sixth-inning blast tied the score 5-5. The winning run was knocked in by Larry Brown with a sacrifice fly off the Red Sox' ace reliever, Dick Radatz, giving Radatz his first loss against two victories.

The Red Sox brought in Radatz to get them out of trouble in the seventh. But in the eighth after striking out Max Alvis, Radatz walked Tito Francona and pinch-hitter Bob Chance bounced a ground rule double into the left field stands. Dick Howser was walked intentionally to fill the bases, and Brown hit his long fly into right field, scoring Francona.

The Indians started out as though they were going to win it in the first inning, rattling five hits off Bill Spanwick. They got some help from Boston fielding errors and wound up with four runs.

But Boston came back with three homers off Jim Grant. Relief pitcher Bob Heffner and shortstop Eddie Bressoud hit home runs in the third inning, and Dalton Jones hit one in the fourth.

Two more runs in the sixth on three singles put the Red Sox out in front and sent Grant to the showers. Don McMahon and Ted Abernathy, who appeared in three games in a row, finished up on the mound for Cleveland. McMahon got credit for the victory, his second.

Dick Donovan starts tonight in the final game of the three-game series with Boston. Pitching for the Red Sox will be Dave Morehead, who shut out the Indians 4-0 last week.

Indians Put Wally Post On Waivers

CLEVELAND (AP) — Wally Post, veteran slugger who once hit 40 homers in one season for the Cincinnati Reds, has been put up for waivers by the Cleveland Indians.

Post was one of two players the Tribe cut Tuesday. The other, pitcher Gordon Seyfried, was sold to Atlanta of the International League for an undisclosed price.

The Indians must cut another player by midnight tonight to reach the 25 player level.

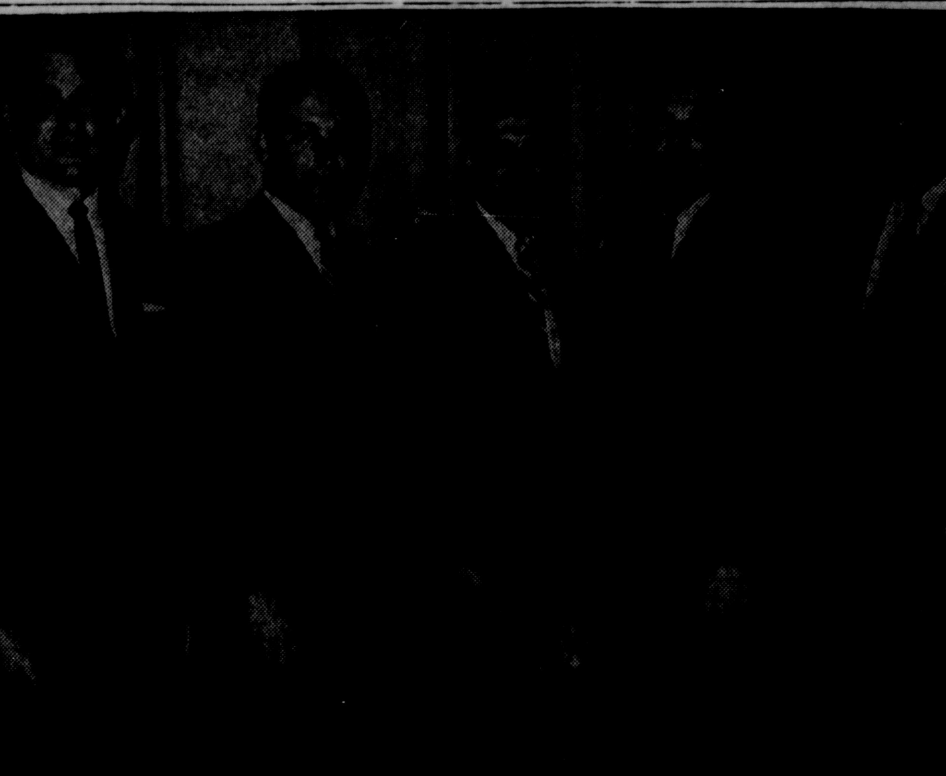

Post, 34, spent most of his 15 years in the majors with Cincinnati. He also played for Milwaukee and Philadelphia in the National League, compiling a .266 batting average. He hit 20 or more homers five times and has a total of 210. If nobody claims him by Saturday, he will be released unconditionally.

Signed by Cleveland after being released by Minnesota at the end of last season, Post was hitless in eight trips to the plate.

Seyfried made two relief appearances and didn't allow an earned run in 2 2/3 innings. He was obtained in a 1962 trade that sent Bubba Phillips to Detroit. Seyfried, a 24-year-old right hander, joined the Indians in 1963, but was optioned to Salt Lake City after two weeks.

Columbiana Honors Athletes At Annual All-Sports Dinner

By CAROL CROFT
"The image of an athlete must be maintained by anyone participating in the world of sports," asserted Chalmers "Bump" Elliott, head football coach at the University of Michigan, when he spoke at the Columbiana Booster Club's third annual all-sports recognition banquet Tuesday at South Side School at Columbiana.

Elliott explained that it is disturbing to him to see a good athlete who does not live up to the standards and ideals which he should follow in his role as a public figure. He maintained that it is an athlete's obligation to live up to these standards and that, to be called a great athlete, he must live the part both on and off the field.

Another main point brought out in Elliott's talk was that the athlete or student must recognize the opportunity before him and make the best use of the chance to better himself educationally and athletically.

He said too many times, good or even exceptionally fine athletes believe that they can get through life on their athletic prowess alone and pointed out the falsity of this belief.

He further stated that coaches in college and university coaches and athletic director look for two main qualities in a high school prospect — skill as a player and the ability to maintain a reasonable average in the classroom.

Introducing the Big Ten speaker was Dr. Chester W. Dewalt, who served as toastmaster. Joe Keck, chairman of the committee which arranged the event, introduced Dewalt.

Members of the varsity teams were recognized individually by each of the coaches, Richard Berryman, head basketball coach; George Fisher, head football and golf coach; and Bruce Felcht, reserve coach, who represented R. Waldo Ward, track coach who was unable to be present.

W. G. Gloss, principal, introduced the special guests, including Mayor Lee Harrold, George Gaines, former track star and for many years, record holder for the school, and Mike Viglio, proprietor of the new Arrowhead Lanes.

Don Gosney, president of the Booster Club, and Superintendent D. W. Bailey gave a few remarks.

Rev. Harold Thiedt of Grace United Church of Christ pronounced the invocation and benediction. Dr. K. P. Murphy led group singing following the swiss steak dinner served by members of the Tri-Hi-Y.

Brian Arbuckle, football captain, presented each of the coaches with a gift of appreciation from the team members. Over 200 persons attended the event.

Salem Tool Leads Flying B League

Orioles Shut Out Senators 5-0 Behind Bunker; Yankees Lose

By MIKE RATHET

Associated Press Sports Writer
Are the Chuckin's Chicks—Dave McNally and Wally Bunker—ready to replace the Kiddie Korps as the meat of Baltimore's pitching staff?

McNally, at 21 the senior member of the Orioles' fledgling fireballers, joined Bunker in the shutout circle Tuesday night by limiting Washington to two hits in a 5-0 Baltimore victory.

It was McNally's third victory against a single loss and his first shutout since he made his major league debut with a two-hit job, Sept. 26, 1962. Bunker made his big league bow a week ago and pitched a one-hit shutout.

McNally, a left-hander, and Bunker, a 19-year-old right-hander, now have accounted for five of the Orioles' 14 victories while the three remaining members of the Kiddie Korps—Steve Barber, Chuck Estrada and Milt Pappas — have one victory among them.

McNally, who was 7-8 last year in his first full season, allowed the Senators only a first-inning double by Chuck Hinton and a scratch single up the middle by pinch hitter Fred Valentine in the sixth. McNally walked three and struck out one.

In other sharp pitching performances, Detroit's Mickey Lolich three-hit the New York Yankees for a 7-2 victory, Jim Kaat allowed only four hits while his Minnesota mates pounded 15 in an 11-1 walloping of the Chicago White Sox and John O'Donoghue and John Wyatt collaborated on a two-hitter as Kansas City defeated the Los Angeles Angels 6-2.

Cleveland edged Boston 6-5 in the other game on the full American League program.

The Orioles used two of their five stolen bases to advantage in a two-run first against Senators starter Dave Stenhouse before Boog Powell took care of the rest of the scoring with a three-run homer in the third.

Luis Aparicio stole three bases and Willie Kirkland won the first inning and wound up scoring.

Lolich, now 3-1, gave up a two-run homer to Hector Lopez in the first inning, then set the Yankees down without difficulty, snapping New York's five-game winning streak and ending the Tigers' five-game losing string. Willie Horton drove in two runs for Detroit with a pair of triples and Don Wert collected three hits, including a two-run double as the Tigers moved ahead to stay in the second inning.

Kaat, 3-1, did not allow the White Sox a hit after the third inning and retired 13 men in order at one stretch. Dave Nicholson's second-inning home run accounted for the Chicago run.

The Twins' offensive included Jimmie Hall's ninth homer and four hits each by Don Mincher and Zoilo Versalles. Mincher playing first with Harmon Killebrew benched, hit his fifth home run and collected three singles. Versalles drove in three runs with two doubles and two singles.

O'Donoghue weathered four A's errors—three by Wayne Causey—but needed Wyatt's relief help in the eighth inning. Wyatt finished up without allowing the Angels a hit.

The Indians blew a 4-0 lead, tied it 5-5 on Woodie Held's homer in the sixth, then moved ahead to stay in the eighth on Larry Brown's sacrifice fly with the bases loaded off ace Red Sox reliever Dick Radatz.

In National League action, San Francisco shut out Houston 6-0 as Willie Mays hit his 12th and 13th homers, Chicago's Cubs nipped the Los Angeles Dodgers 3-2, St. Louis defeated Philadelphia 4-2, Milwaukee blanked the New York Mets 2-0 and Pittsburgh downed Cincinnati 3-2.

Pirates Nip Cincy 3-2; Cards Clip Phils

Rampaging Willie Mays Socks 2 Homers As Giants Blank Colts

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
Willie Mays hit .400?
Well, if Juan Marichal wins 30 games, the Say Hey Kid is liable to bat .00.

The San Francisco Giants' torrid twosome continued to ravage the National League Tuesday night, punishing the Houston Colts 6-0.

Mays ran his average to an astronomical .478 with his 12th and 13th homers and a single in five trips. Marichal won his sixth game and trimmed his earned-run average to 1.73 with his second straight shutout.

The Giants' "M" boys are murder by themselves but when thrown against the opposition in combination it's tantamount to a nuclear holocaust.

As for Marichal, the veteran right-hander who won 25 games last year, is 12 days ahead of the pace he set in 1963 when he didn't win his sixth game until May 24. And the season started a week later this year.

For the record the last .400 hitter was Ted Williams in 1941 with .406. The last 30-game winner was Dizzy Dean in 1934 with 30.7. Modern baseball has never had a .400 hitter and 30-game winner on the same club.

In other NL games Tuesday, Milwaukee blanked New York 2-0 behind Hank Fischer's three-hitter; Pittsburgh nipped Cincinnati 2-1 in a four-hour, rain-interrupted marathon; St. Louis topped Philadelphia 4-2 behind Curt Simmons and Chicago nipped Los Angeles 3-2 on Dick Tracewski's ninth inning error. Mays' three hits drove in four runs and extended his batting streak to 19 games. After flying out in the first he battered Houston starter Skinny Brown for a solo homer in the third and a two-run shot in the fifth. His seventh inning single also drove in a run.

Marichal allowed just five hits and retired 14 in a row over one straight over a two-season stretch while winning his 12th stretch.

Milwaukee's Fischer faced just 29 batters and got all the runs he needed when rookie Rico Carty crashed his first major league homer against Met starter Alvin Jackson.

Cincinnati's Jim Maloney pitched four perfect innings before rain interrupted the Pirates-Reds game at Pittsburgh. After a 1½-hour wait, play was resumed, and Maloney quickly lost his no-hitter and shutout when Smoky Burgess singled and ex-Red Gene Freese homered to tie it at 2-2.

After another 28 minute delay, the Pirates won it without a hit in the eighth on an error, a fielder's choice and two walks off Maloney.

Curt Simmons beat the Phils for the 13th time in 15 decisions since they released him four years ago but needed eighth-inning help from Roger Craig to do it.

Leading 4-1, Simmons gave up a single to Tony Gonzalez and Danny Cater with one out in the eighth. Craig came on and after Gus Triandos' double delivered one run, the lanky Cardinal retired the side and blanked the Phils in the ninth to save it.

Tracewski fumbled pinch hitter Joey Amalfitano's grounder with two out and the bases loaded in the bottom of the ninth to give Chicago its victory over the stumbling Dodgers.

SECOND CHANCE — Hill Rise, Kentucky Derby favorite who finished second to Northern Dancer, is led from the van at Pimlico race track in Baltimore. The Derby rivals will test each other again in the Preakness May 16.

Outside Chance Given To Big Pete In Preakness

By ORLO ROBERTSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
BALTIMORE (AP)—Big Pete will be the outsider Saturday when six 3-year-old horses take off for a 1 3-16-mile trip around history-steeped Pimlico in the 88th running of the $150,000-added Preakness. That's for certain.

But the star of Mrs. Harriet N. Ball's Stable of Falls Church, Va., who has the blood of classy sprinters flowing through his solidly built frame, probably will play an important role before the garland of black-eyed susans is thrown over the winner and the imposing woodlawn vase is presented to the winning owner.

Until trainer Bernie Bond announced Tuesday that he definitely would be on hand Thursday morning to pay the $1,000 entry fee on Big Pete, there was some question whether the horses would walk or run the first part of the journey. No trainer wanted to commit his horse to making the early pace and setting up another possible stretch duel between Kentucky Derby winner Northern Dancer and runner-up Hill Rise.

Bond declined today to say whether the son of Degage-Judiciously would set the early pace. Not only his breeding but his 10 races, of which he has won seven, indicate that Big Pete runs best at getting out in front and hanging on as long as possible.

As a 2-year-old he won three stakes and in all except one they were front-running victories. He also was close to the early pace before taking the recent Delaware Valley Stakes at Garden State Park in the fast time of 1:10 1-5 for six furlongs. Bond himself doesn't favor racing Big Pete against the Derby's first five finishers — Northern Dancer, Hill Rise, The Scoundrel, Roman Brother and Quadrangle at 8-1 and Big Pete at 20-1.

Four of the six will participate in the purse payoff. The winner's share of the $176,700 will be $124,200 with $30,000 going to second, $15,000 to third and $7,500 to fourth. Post time is 4:45 p.m., EST, with television and radio (CBS) scheduled for 4:30-5 p.m.

The Scoundrel was quoted at 4-1 today, Roman Brother and Quadrangle at 8-1 and Big Pete at 20-1.

West Branch Program Set

Choir to Appear In New Robes On Friday

New forest green robes, accented with snow-white stoles, will be worn by the chorists at the 4th annual West Branch High School Choral Concert Friday at 8 p.m. in the High School auditorium.

The robes, which have been a project for the past two years, will be worn for the first time by the robed choir during the sacred segment of the concert.

Following this part of the program, the Singing 67, the Boy's Glee Club, and the Choral Tones will join the choir in presenting a variety of show tunes from well-known musicals. They include selections from "West Side Story," "Porgy and Bess," "Wildcat," "South Pacific," "Milk and Honey," and "Bye Bye Birdie."

A gypsy dance, by Vivian Hipkins, to the music of "Romany Life," from the operetta, "The Fortune Teller," will highlight the second segment of the program. Also featured will be a square dance to the tune of "Country Style."

The finale will feature the entire choral department in "Seventy-Six Trombones" from the musical "The Music Man."

Piano accompanists for the various groups are: Linda Heran, Nancy Lora, Sherri Scott, and Susan Steves.

The concert is under the direction of Mrs. Virginia Fairs. Assisting will be Leroy White, student teacher from Mt. Union College, now practicing teaching at West Branch.

Immediately following the concert, a bake sale will be sponsored by the Choral Parents Club in the school cafeteria.

Tickets can be purchased from any choral member or at the door. Donations from the tickets will be used to make the final payment on the robes.

When a river or stream meanders, it is imitating the vagaries of the ancient Maeander, in Asia Minor. The river is now called by its Turkish name, Buyuk Menderes.

Ohio Family Resumes Home Routine After Russia Visit

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP)—The world travelers of Portsmouth—Mr. and Mrs. James McKenzie and their son Philip—were settling back to their everyday lives in this Ohio River city today.

With memories of Moscow and several capitals of Europe still vivid—James McKenzie returned to his insurance business, Carole McKenzie resumed her homemaking duties and 14-year-old Philip once again was merely a schoolboy, but with many fascinating adventures to tell his classmates.

The McKenzies arrived at their home Tuesday night—tired and glad to be home—from their two-week trip to the Soviet Union. They arrived in Columbus by jet airliner and were driven the 90 miles to home by relatives.

Their trip was the second part of a goodwill effort that began late last year. The McKenzies entertained a Russian family—Mr. and Mrs. Viktor Pozdneyev and their son and daughter—during the Christmas holidays as a Junior Chamber of Commerce "peace on earth" project.

The McKenzies received a surprise invitation from the Pozdneyevs, through the Soviet government, last month to come to visit them.

The McKenzies, after their arrival at Port Columbus Airport Tuesday night, told newsmen they were very hospitably received by the Pozdneyevs.

"We were glad to renew our brief acquaintance with them," McKenzie said. "They were as warm and hospitable as ever." McKenzie said they were kept busy in Moscow. "We saw all the points of interest," he said. "The people of Moscow impressed us more than anything else. We were there for May Day, and we were amazed at the large number of people taking part. It was an exciting day for us."

He said, however, that the people as a whole were unfriendly. "Russia to most of us is a mystery," he said. "I think now we have a better understanding of their way of life."

"We know so little about them that there are many voids in our opinions. If only Americans could get to know the Russians better those voids would be filled. We would have more definite opinions about them and their objects."

McKenzie said he was disappointed when he saw the construction and architecture of Moscow's buildings. "There are buildings in Russia which are supposed to be only three or four years old, but they look like they are 20 or 30 years old."

"The Moscow that is shown in the travel folders and the real Moscow are two different things," he said.

Mrs. McKenzie said they attended a Baptist church service, and it was about the only place they went where they weren't surrounded by Soviet newsmen and officials.

"It was a very interesting experience," she said. "The church was filled to capacity, and many of the people were weeping."

She said, however, that she doesn't feel there is a real spiritual life in Russia. "If there is a God as we know it in Russia," she said, "it probably would be Lenin."

They left Moscow last Wednesday, cutting their visit short a few days, and flew to Copenhagen. After touring there they went on to Paris to sightsee. They left London Tuesday morning, switched planes at New York's Kennedy International Airport and continued on to Columbus.

After talking with newsmen, they left in a rush to get to a meeting of the Portsmouth School Board, of which McKenzie is a member. But the meeting was over, and the tired family went home to bed.

TO HOLD STRIKE PARLEY LORAIN, Ohio (AP)—Officials of United Auto Workers Local 425 meet today in Detroit with Ford Motor Co. officials to discuss a strike that shut down the Ford assembly plant here.

These will be the first talks since the strike started early Friday in a dispute over health and safety issues and production standards. The plant employs some 4,400 workers.

Club Visits N.R.M. Co.

Columbiana Plant Tour Is Conducted

By MRS. CHARLES WRIGHT COLUMBIANA — A tour of the National Rubber Machinery Co. followed the Kiwanis Club dinner meeting Monday evening at Heck's.

Paul Schulz, a member of the local club and plant manager of the N.R.M. Co., as it is now known, gave a brief history of the plant before the tour.

Schulz noted the company was founded in 1909 under the name of the Banner Machine Co., changing locations to the present site in 1918 and the name of the company in 1929. According to Schulz, the company has grown from 100 employees in 1935 to 600 in 1964 and now occupies approximately six acres including the Columbiana, and Leetonia plants and the foundry. Products manufactured by the company include tire paper wrapping machines, tread applier curing presses, dry cleaning machines, printing presses, tire building machines and auto form presses. Guests at the meeting were Virgil Blosser, Bob Exten, Bill Kimpel and Rev. Clarence Mansfield.

Next week's meeting will feature "Ladies Night", with William Miller as program chairman.

DR. R. M. GAVER was elected president of the Columbiana Camera Club, succeeding Don Oberholzer, at the monthly meeting held Monday evening at Joshua Dixon School.

Other officers named included Art Hickman, vice president and program chairman; John Thiel, secretary; and Richard Detwiler, treasurer. The new officers will be installed in September.

Slide of the Month contest winners were Walter Messersmith, first place; Paul Wilms, second; and Richard Detwiler, third place.

Announcement was made of the "Slide of the Year" contest to be held June 8, at Station WKBN in Youngstown, in conjunction with the final meeting of the year.

Art Hickman showed slides of flowers during the program following the meeting. George Messersmith was in charge of refreshments.

MRS. MARGARET FERRALL presented several of her speech class students in a series of one-act play cuttings at Mondays Rotary Club meeting.

Students participating were Barbara Gerlach, Susan Crawford, Inta Grins, Karen Isaksson, Betty Bevan, Chris Brown and Joe Wojtecki, all seniors. D. W. Bailey was program chairman. Dennis Paulson was welcomed into the club as a new member. Announcement was made concerning indoctrination of new members at the May 25 meeting.

Next week's program will be a mystery program.

DIRECTORS OF THE Columbiana Chamber of Commerce agree to provide funds to aid the Veterans of Foreign Wars with the annual Fourth of July program at Firestone Park, during their meeting held Monday evening at the Kaiser Refractories offices.

Announcement was made by president Sam Lindsay, Jr., that maps of the Village would soon be available for sale to the public.

Further announcements stated a list of Columbiana's Clubs and organizations and their presidents is being prepared and may also be obtained in the near future from the Chamber of Commerce.

4 CARD OF THANKS
WE WISH in this manner to thank our relatives, friends, and neighbors for the personal messages and heartfelt cards we received in honor of our 25th Wedding Anniversary Sat. May 9th. All were very much appreciated. A special thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Hutcheson of West Point for the lovely dinner and cake they served in our honor, also for the very nice gifts we received from them. Again many thanks to everyone MR. and MRS. CECIL FLORY, 2123 Southeast Blvd., Salem, Ohio

WE WISH to thank Father Patrick, Father Humphrey, friends & neighbors and Woods Funeral Home for their kindness and sympathy during the loss of my husband and father. MRS. PETER PERRY & Family
